YOUR HOME TOWN

ENTERTAINERS.

The Ennis Daily News, in commenting on the entertainment provided for the Ellis County fair, has a paragraph concerning Happy King's Southern Entertainers. Since this is the band that furnished music for the dance given by Rhea Lewis and Dick McGarr out at the Hill Crest Country club Friday night, we'll pass the paragraph on to you:

"Happy King's Southern Entertainers orchestra, booked to play for the dances at the Ellis County fair next week is one of the best known dance orchestras in America. They have been booked in some of the largest hotels in the country. Their appearance here means another big expense to the fair, but Secretary Castellaw is living up to his past policy of bringing the best class of entertainment to Ellis county.

PROMOTION DAY.

Promotion day in a Sunday school of course is a happy occasion, and yet the day brings tears and sadness to some of the teachers and pupils who are changed and advanced from year to year. Y. H. T. attended a Sunday school promotion day program Sunday and witnessed both joy and sadness among the teachers at giving up pupils who in the past year had grown near and dear to them. But, such is life. We must ever be giving up old friends who have meant so much to us, gaining new friends and acquaintances in their stead. We must ever be changing, progressing, moving forward. Be glad when such events as promotion day comes along, for it represents a mile post in the lives of the pupils. It proves that they are advancing, pressing onward. If you're a teacher, you'll have an opportunity of making new friends during the new year. Resolve now, too, to be more faithful and painstaking in your work than you ever have been.

"THE STAR OF DESTINY."

A copy of the International Poetry Magazine for October reaches our desk. It is published at Rutherford, New Jersey and contains some of the best poetry written by present-day poets of this great land of ours. We were especially attracted by a poem from the pen of Louise Allen Scott, wife of L. A. Scott, president of the Collin County National bank of this city. The poem, entitled "The Star of Destiny" is a worthy tribute to the great Lone Star state and is full of love and beautiful sentiment concerning the great state of Texas. The poem is being published in the Daily Courier-Gazette and Weekly Democrat-Gazette and Y. H. T. feels sure our readers will read with joy this splendid poem.

THANKS.

Reaching our desk this week: A copy of the New York Times Book Review, September 28 issue, for which we express our thanks and appreciation. It contains a discussion and criticism of the latest and best literature.

AN IMPORTANT FACTOR.

We wish to thank the N. E. L. S. (National Electric Light Association) for the September issue of the N. E. L. A. Bulletin, it being their Golden Jubilee number. The magazine has this caption: "To advance the art and science of the production, distribution and use of electrical energy for public service." What makes the issue especially interesting is that it is dedicated to Mr. Thomas A. Edison, celebrating his great gift to humanity—the incandescent lamp. More than any other man, living or dead, Edison contributed to make electricity useful to humanity. He brought it into the realm of practical workaday life where its energy could light our ways and bear our burdens. In the fifty years since Edison produced his lamp, the electricity industry has become a major factor in the economic scheme of our land. The industry's best tribute to Mr. Edison will be to make electricity even more useful to mankind—to relieve humanity of every task which electricity can be brought to do.

It is always interesting to hear some friend give a report of a long trip. But when it is a report of a trip abroad, to Europe, the sketch is all the more interesting. It was our pleasure to hear Miss Lorene Ball, a McKinney High school teacher, tell of her trip to Europe this summer before the Intermediate department of the First Methodist Sunday school Sunday. Her talk was principally about the churches she visited in European countries and, needless to say, it was all most interesting. Miss Ball is one of the city's most gifted high school instructors, who also has a Sunday school class of girls, which she teaches each Sunday morning. Her address attracted members of other departments in the Sunday school.

DALLAS COUNTY FARM AGENT ATTENDS FAIR

A. B. JOLLY ACTED AS ONE OF JUDGES OF EXHIBITS

A. B. Jolly, county farm agent of Dallas county, came up to McKinney Tuesday morning to act as one of the judges in the live-stock department of our county fair.

Our new county agent, Jack McCullough, was assistant county farm agent of Dallas county under Mr. Jolly during the past year. They are good friends and earnest co-workers for the advancement of the agricultural, live stock interests and for the business of farming generally in this section of the state.

Mr. Jolly came up to McKinney in the auto with Homer D. Wade, manager of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, who was en route to Sherman to attend the Rotary luncheon and the Red River Valley fair that is in progress in that city.

En route back to Dallas Mr. Wade stopped to see our big Collin county free fair.

G. G. McAlexander visited in Dallas Wednesday.

ROCK ISLAND TRAIN STRIKES TRUCK

GRADE CROSSING SMASH CLAIMS TWO VICTIMS

JESSE RASOR AND ARNOLD TAYLOR SOUTHWEST COLLIN FARMERS

A deplorable grade crossing tragedy was enacted at 3:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, October 8, 18 miles west of Dallas, near the Dallas-Tarrant county line, in which the lives of two prominent Collin county farmers were snuffed out.

The victims were Jesse B. Rasor, 54 years 8 months and 23 days old, and John Arnold Taylor, 45 years 9 months and 16 days old. Rasor lived on the old home place of his father, the late John H. Rasor, five miles west of Allen, while Taylor, the other victim, lived two or three miles away in the Bethany community.

Trucked Hogs to Market.

Rasor and Taylor had taken a truck load of hogs to the Fort Worth market and were returning home when the small motor truck in which they were riding was struck by an east-bound Rock Island passenger train, which demolished the truck and instantly killed both of its occupants. The crushed bodies of the two victims were taken from the wreckage of the truck and conveyed by the train to Dallas where they were turned over to the Ed C. Smith & Bros. Undertaking company and were later taken charge of by the E. O. Harrington Undertaking establishment of Plano, who prepared them for burial.

Taylor Buried Wednesday.

John Arnold Taylor owned a couple of farms on one of which he lived in the Bethany community. He is survived by a wife and three daughters—Leota, 20, who is a student in the College of Industrial Arts at Denton; Florence Mae, 18, and Clidora, 11 years old. Funeral services were conducted at 3 o'clock this (Wednesday) afternoon, October 9, in the Bethany church. Interment followed in the Baccus cemetery, twi miles south of Lebanon.

Rasor Funeral Thursday.

Jesse B. Rasor, the other victim of the fatal grade crossing collision, was born in Kentucky. His family moved to Iowa where after a short time they moved to Texas and located near Allen on land owned by the late Senator J. R. Gough. His father, John H. Rasor, began farming on an extensive scale and succeeded in accumulating much land. His father died a few years ago following the death of his wife some years before. Jesse B. Rasor never married but continued to live on the old home place helping to care for his sisters and some little nephews and nieces who were children of his deceased brothers. He was a member of a family of twelve children, eight of whom survive as follows: Misses Lucy and Debbie Rasor; J. Willis Rasor of Frisco; C. D. Rasor, postmaster at Plano; Ernest Rasor, of Frisco; John S. Rasor, Route 3, Allen; Boss and Carl Rasor, both of whom are still in the old home with their sisters. Three brothers preceded him to the grave.

Burial at Rowlett Creek.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon, Oct. 10, at the old John Rasor family home. Interment will follow in the Rowlett Creek cemetery.

The tragedy in which the lives of two Southwest Collin farmers were so suddenly ended has caused a pall of gloom and sorrow to settle over that entire community.

Miss Lucy Rasor, one of the two sisters of the deceased, has been a successful and popular music teacher of McKinney, Anna, Allen and Plano for the past several years.

JUDGE WILCOX IS IN DALLAS HOLDING COURT

WILL NOT RETURN HERE UNTIL OCT. 28 WHEN COURT RESUMED

Judge F. E. Wilcox is in Dallas, where he is sitting on the bench in district court there. Judge Wilcox will be in Dallas in this important legal capacity for three weeks and will not return to McKinney until October 28, when the September term of the 59th District court will again be resumed here. Beginning on that date there will be one week of criminal setting, we are informed by District Clerk Haisell Davis, followed by four weeks of civil setting. This term of court will close on November 30.

As a result of Judge Wilcox going to Dallas, there is a temporary lull in the court machinery in this city.

Hon. Ed Yarbrough of Mineral Wells was recently appointed by Gov. Moody as district attorney for the new 112th district court, which is to be presided over by Judge Joe Montague of Fort Worth. The newly created district is composed of Upton, Pecos, Crockett, Sutton and Kimble counties. Mr. Yarbrough, the new appointee, is a nephew of Prof. W. L. Yarbrough of McKinney, former county school superintendent of this county.

GAME SEASONS IN COLLIN COUNTY ARE ANNOUNCED

BY JIMMIE BELDON, DEPUTY GAME COMMISSIONER, THIS CITY

Jimmie Belden, deputy game commissioner, announces that the dove season, which opened Sept. 15, will continue until November 1. The squirrel season opened October 1, and continues until January 1. The duck season will open October 16. Quail season will open December 1, and will close January 15. Hunting and fishing licenses may be obtained from Mr. Belden or from County Clerk S. G. Taylor.

He makes these announcements since he receives numerous calls daily from nimrods and anglers relative to the opening and closing of the various hunting seasons.

WITH THE DEMONSTRATION CLUBS

COTTAGE HILL.

Visitors at the Collin County fair always expect to see Cottage Hill represented with a community home demonstration club exhibit. And this year is no exception to the rule, for these energetic and active Northwest Collin club ladies prepared another splendid display, which attracted its share of interest from fair patrons.

This club has won four prizes and won third prize this year in the judging among the club exhibits, made Tuesday, proving that the quality of their products and arrangement was about as good as one will find at the fair.

Cottage Hill folks are great county fair workers and can always be counted upon to do even more than their share in making the event a great success. It would be almost impossible to name every article they have on exhibit, but suffice it to be said here that everything in their booth is of excellent quality.

The Cottage Hill Demonstration club has been organized seven years, and in this time they have been exhibitors at our big free county-wide fair six times.

Officers of the club, which numbers twenty members, are: Mrs. Claude Duvall, president; Mrs. George Darnall, secretary; Mrs. Harper Smith, vice-president.

MESQUITE.

The fact that they have been organized hardly two years does not deter members of the live-wire Mesquite Home Demonstration club from being regular exhibitors at our free county fair. This Southeast Collin demonstration group, numbering 24 members, is the youngest club in Collin county. Since its organizattion its members, by their activity and rapid growth, have commanded the interest of the entire county.

They exhibited at the county fair last year, and again this year exhibited the results of a year's work. Their work has been rewarded by their winning sixth place in the awards made yesterday among these community booths.

Officers of the Mesquite club are: Mrs. Bill McElyea, president; Miss Ola Simms, vice-president; Mrs. C. F. Montgomery, secretary.

A feature of the booth is a hand-made house, made by a young school boy of the Mesquite community, Ollin Taylor, which emphasizes the "live-at-home" idea.

The club has $50 in the bank.

You are invited to visit the Mesquite booth at every opportunity you have while attending the county fair.

Otis Cox, wife and two children, are moving from Allen to McKinney. Otis was reared in the Roland community. He is a son of the late Charlie Cox of that section of our county.

COTTON INSECT CONTROL BOOTH AT FREE FAIR

J. N. RONEY IN CHARGE; INVITED YOU TO VISIT BOOTH

A most interesting exhibit in the coliseum during the progress of the twelfth annual Collin County fair is that prepared by J. N. Roney, of the experiment station Division of Entomology, who has been in this city for the past several months working over the county on insect control.

The cotton boll worm is the principal project which Mr. Roney is working on in this county, and in his exhibit he sought to impress the fair visitors of the importance of controlling and combating these cotton insects which annually cause thousands of dollars worth of damage to Collin county's cotton crop.

One could see a large Texas state map in the booth, showing the projects carried on by workers like Mr. Roney all over the state of Texas, the map showing the location and nature of insect investigation carried on at the present time.

A free list of all bulletins relating to experiment station projects may be obtained by asking Mr. Roney for one of the booklets.

Some of the displays in his booth showed bolls of cotton with and without cotton boll weevil infestation. There were several cases containing a few of the common insects which Mr. Roney has found in this county the past summer and early fall.

Martin W. Moses and son-in-law, Jack Leonard, left Monday for West Texas, where they are both working in the insurance business. Mr. Moses is a representative of the Southern Union Life Insurance company, and will be located at Hereford, while Mr. Leonard, who represents the Farm and Ranch Publishing company, will be located in Henrietta. Mr. Leonard married Miss Madeline Moses, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Moses. She holds a responsible position with the Collin County National bank in this city.

LARGEST CROWDS IN FAIR'S HISTORY ATTEND EVENT

EXHIBITS OF BETTER QUALITY THIS YEAR THAN EVER BEFORE

McKinney was the mecca for thousands of Collin county citizens Tuesday and Wednesday, who thronged this city to attend the second day's session of the twelfth annual Collin County fair, now in progress here.

The crowd commenced arriving early and they remained late. At 10:30 last night it seemed that all the thousands of visitors were still on the grounds.

Fair officials estimated the crowd as one of the largest ever to attend the fair here in one day's or night's time.

The fine exhibits of the best live stock in the county—horses, cows, sheep, goats, hogs, etc.—continue to draw a large part of the fair visitors down to the live-stock barns to view the stock. The coliseum is crowded at all times during the day by McKinney and Collinites viewing the agricultural and horticultural exhibits, the demonstration club booths, poultry display or exhibit as well as other interesting displays, all of which are coming in for their share of attention.

The crowds at the fair are a good-natured lot of folks, everyone seeming to be enjoying themselves. They take a great delight and pride in viewing the wonderful exhibits of Collin county produce, etc.

Regarded as the great educational institution held each year, the Collin County fair is always largely attended by Collin folks who want to see their county grow and progress more each year. There is an appreciable improvement in quality of the exhibits to be found at the fair, proving that the county fair has not been in vain, but is being successful in its purpose—that of causing our farmers to grow better products and finer live stock.

Practically all of the judging has already been completed, much of it being done Tuesday. The art exhibit and some of the live stock was judged Wednesday.

The drawing in the Corn Products Refining company booth causes hundreds of fair visitors to throng around that booth each evening at 8 o'clock.

The horse and pony show last night was a great success.

The curtain will be rung down on the four-day event tomorrow (Thursday) night, and many of the exhibitors will take their products to Dallas.

FIRST REHEARSAL HIGH SCHOOL BAND TUESDAY EVENING

TWENTY PRESENT WITH INSTRUMENTS; REHEARSAL ON OCTOBER 10

The first regular rehearsal of the new school band recently organized in this city by G. C. Collum, was held in the main auditorium of the junior high school Tuesday evening, Oct. 8, at 7:30 o'clock with about twenty present with their instruments. About fifteen members were absent from the rehearsal.

A splendid rehearsal was held, several solos being played by members who had had their instruments only two days. Much interest is being shown in the band, there now being about thirty-five active members. New members are joining almost every day and Mr. Collum urges all who intend to become members to see him at the Commercial hotel before Friday noon as he will be out of town after that date.

Prof. W. E. Crelia of Farmersville will take charge of the band after Thursday night and will hold regular rehearsals each week.

Mr. Collum states that proper instrumentation is represented in the band except a bass horn and bass drum. He says there are enough cornets and trumpets, but could use more clarinets and saxophones.

The next rehearsal will be held Thursday night, Oct. 10, at 7:30 in the Junior High school auditorium, and every member is urged to be present.

Editorials

'Tis not the mere stage of life, but the part we play on it that gives the value.—Schiller.

After the county fair has closed make your plans to attend the State Fair of Texas, which will be held from October 12 to 27. We are fortunate to be situated so near to the scene of the biggest state exposition in the nation.

Much significance has been attached to the coming to America of Premier Ramsay MasDonald, who landed in New York Friday. It is asserted that his visit signalizes the virtual agreement between the United States and Great Britain for complete naval equality.

The Texas public road system comprises about 180,000 miles of which nearly 20,000 miles are known as "improved." State and federal improved highways total 9,645 miles and there are about 10,000 miles of gravel, sand, clay or other "improved" roads, so says the Texas Commercial News.

"Governor Accustomed to Getting Threat Letters," reads a headline in a Texas afternoon newspaper this week, referring to the death threat received by Gov. Dan Moody on Thursday. Evidently Dan pays little attention to anonymous messages, but goes on about his business as though nothing had happened.

THE CORRECT ATTITUDE

Editor Marvin Smith of the Farmersville Times believes in helpful cooperation not destructive competition. Here is the way he sees it and he is right.

Some people labor under the delusion that their own success must be built on the plan of crushing others down. A better and more successful plan is a spirit of co-operation whereby the whole community is built up, thus bringing success and prosperity to each individual. The selfish, grasping individual soon so advertises himself that the public loses interest in him and fails to patronize him. The time has arrived when people appreciate the unselfish work of the public-spirited citizen who takes a lively interest in the welfare of his community just the same as he does in his personal business. The most successful business man today is the one who puts his whole community on his pay roll.

RISE OF NEWSBOYS.

We heard a friend the other day discussing the rise of newsboys in the business world. He said that William Wrigley ,the chewing gum magnate, was a newsboy on the streets of Chicago. Ed J. Kiest, publisher of the Dallas Times Herald, one of Texas greatest newspapers, likes to tell about his boyhood experience selling newspapers. There is another young newspaper man in Dallas, who gained his first business experience as a carrier boy on the McKinney Courier-Gazette. He is Jack Estes, now circulation manager of the Dallas News, and he has built the largest circulation the News ever had. There are hundreds of business men whose names are written high on the scroll of success who were humble newsboys when lads and the experience gained stood them in good stead as they went out into the business world. In fact, many of them made their financial start with the pennies they earned in selling newspapers. Industrious, ambitious boys find a pleasant as well as profitable occupation as newsboys, and they gain many lessons from their experience and should be encouraged in their work. —Quanah Tribune-Chief.

FARM-MINDEDNESS.

The future farmers of Texas, forty-five in number, taking vocational agriculture training in Garland High school, have this week donned neat uniforms, which make them look like a real organization. These boys are starting out with enthusiasm, and it is safe to predict that most of them will go through their course to the great benefit, whether or not they expect to make farmers. The training will be valuable to them in whatever walk of life their work is cast.—Garland News.

This is an organization to be supported with sympathy and sincerity. By sympathy we do not mean that the Future Farmers of Texas should be subsidized by community contributions. Not that. But they should be viewed with friendly eyes and encouraged to become what their name implies. Farming can not continue always to be a haphazard occupation. Agriculture is an engineering profession. It requires study, experience, like any other branch of engineering. Probably the best farmers in the world are the Scandinavians, who wring comfortable livings and build up bank accounts from the cold and stony soils of Denmark, Sweden, Norway and Finland. Scientific agriculture is taught in those countries to youths who expect to be and desire to be farmers. The results are manifest in a prosperous agricultural population. Those Scandinavian youths do not yearn to get away from the farm into the town. They like farming, for one thing because they know how to farm. And they know how because they are taught. Farms in the best farming countries of Europe are dearly beloved by the upgrowing generation in every era. They love the soil which is their own, and the parental farm goes to the rightful heirs generation after generation. It is a security kept secure. Farm-mindedness can not be expected where town-mindedness is emphasized. In our country we consistently school the young from the farm, rarely toward it.—State Press in Dallas News.

"Trip to Arkansas"

On Saturday afternoon, Sept. 7th., about 4:30 o'clock Mr. Dunn and I crossed the line into Arkansas, going by way of Sherman, Paris and Texarkana; crossed Red River on toll bridge, retour via of Ashdown. We spent the night in Nashville, Arkansas. Early Sunday morning we left Nashville, passing through the largest peach orchard in the world. They claim to have 65,000 acres. About 9:30 it began raining, continued on through Hot Springs and Little Rock We ate lunch and rested here, left for Batesville by way of Newport, roads being under construction by nearer route, and on to Melbourne. Izard county, having driven 294 miles we spent the night. Monday morning we went out 7 miles over a new road through and over the Ozark mountains, which is beautiful scenery o visit our brother, Rev M. M. Dunn and family. Mrs. Dunn will be remembered as Miss Bula Hatler. We found her near Twin Creek school house. She accompanied us nd we went to Sidney, Sharpe ounty, where we found M. M. Dunn ust starting his 9 months school. He nd Miss Elizabeth, whom we al know as Tots Dunn, were housekeeping until Mrs. Dunn could join them as she was finishing out a summer school for Mr. Dunn at Twin Creek Spent Monday night and Tuesday with them. The Dunns are doing fine. Last December Mr. Dunn had a nervous break down while he was teaching at Cabot. Was in the hospital at Little Rock 3 months. When he was able to leave there he weighed 120 pounds. The Doctors advised him to go to the mountains. He now weighs 160 pounds and feeling fine. We left them Tuesday afternoon by way of Heber Springs and Searcy. Very beautiful country from Melbourne through Heber Springs and Searcy, if you like mountains, fine roads. Arkansas is noted for its good high ways and the pine forest with the tall straight pines. We saw lots of log houses and near Heber Springs we saw a new log house nearing completion, which was a modern home with logs varnished. If you have never seen a corn patch or cotton patch on the mountain side with the rows running around the mountain, then you will be surprised. Some fine coton in Arkansas. From Heber Springs to Searcy, county seat of White county, where Judge White, a decendant of the first county Judge of White county. The Judge told us when we had seen White county, we could say we had seen Arkansas, for it contains mountains, marbles, vailes, White River bounded on east by Little Red River. From here we went to Lonoke in Lonoke county, over a fine level white gravel road 17 miles long, going south without a turn. Came into Little Rock, spent the night. Visited the new court house the pretiest we saw built on the capital plan, and of pure white marble. The capital building is not quite so large as our own building at Austin, but very beautiful all in white and beautiful grounds. From here we went to Benton, Ate lunch and went on to Hot Springs, the "National Park." We drank from the noted hot spring which still has hot water bubbling over the sides. Some years ago Rev. W. H. Dunn, wife and children came through Hot Springs when there was no town there. Now it is a beautiful city of pretty homes and beautiful flowers, called a national park. On to Malvern, more good roads Came into Glenwood and spent the night and on to Nashville where they have an old, old court house but are planning to build a new one soon. In visiting the county seats I visited the rest rooms and not one place even in the large towns did I find any conveniences like we have in our own rest room in McKinney. No magazines, no tables, cots, and no woman like our own Mrs. Rollins to look after the women and children who visit the rest room. We all appreciate the work of the clubs in keeping up the rest room here. We crossed the toll bridge over Red River and into Texas via of Mt. Pleasant. Spent the night in Mt. Vernon. Came to Sulphur Springs. Here we find a pretty well-kept rest room with a lady in charge. Magazines, tables, rocking chairs, rugs, etc. I wonder why every county seat could not have a well equipped rest room which is appreciated by the women and children. Came by Greenville and back home having been gone 12 days. Found every body busy gathering the fleecy staple. We drove 1400 miles on our trip. Mr. Duna selling oils and grease for the Oriental Oil Co., of Dallas to commissioners in Texas and county Judges in Arkansas, while I was sight seeing.

Hon. Will A. Harris and daughter of Point (Hunt county) Texas visited in McKinney Tuesday and attended the Collin County fair now in progress in this city. Mr. Harris took occasion to commend this county on its spendid exhibits on display here.

DISTRICT P.-T. A. MEETS.

Mrs. Taylor, second district president of P.-T. A. spoke before a large audience of ladies at the First Christian church in this city Saturday afternoon. The audience was made up mostly of members of Parent-Teacher associations of this city and a few out-of-town ladies. Mrs. Jim Kimbriel, active member of the Fanny Finch P.-T. A., presided over the meeting. Miss Tennie Strickland, organist at the First Christian church, gave a beautiful organ prelude after which Mrs. Clifford Weaver lead in an impressive prayer.

Mrs. J. L. Lovejoy, prominent club leader of this city and personal friend of Mrs. Taylor, introduced the afternoon's speaker. Mrs. Taylor's talk was very informal, but instructive, in which she urged the organization of a city council. Numerous questions were asked which she answered, giving much advice. Her talk was valued very much because she spoke from experience.

Mrs. J. D. Burt, from the Farmersville P.-T. A. extended an invitation to all present to attend an all-day meeting in her home on Oct. 24, at which time Mrs. Taylor will be present. The invitation was gratefully received and a good representation of the local organization will be present on that occasion.

It is hoped by the McKinney P.-T. A.'s to have Mrs. Taylor speak again in McKinney some evening when all the parents may have the pleasure of hearing her.

My Kentucky Trip.

Well, I believe we were camped thirty-one miles out of Nashville in a new tourist camp on Tuesday night. We got up at 3:25 Wednesday morning finding the weather cooler. Got loaded and ready to start at 4:07. We were a mile from Murfreesboro, but it was too dark to see the town when our Ford took us through, so we just went plunking on. Stopped just off the square at McMinnville for gas. Nobody up to feed us so we drove on to Doyle, 54 miles from our camp, and stopped to eat breakfast. And we had some good eats, country sausage, that hit the spot and eggs the old hen laid just for us, with coffee strong as strong. Went to see the post office and mailed half a dozen cards back to Texas. Left Doyle at 8 o'clock and reached Sparta about 8:30. We liked this place. Nice looking town, beautiful flowers and nice homes. Just after leaving Sparta we started up into the mountains and I mean up into and on, not by and around a-tall. It was 35 miles from Sparta to Crossville at the top where the elevation was 2,000 feet above sea level. There was a great big signboard telling the elevation, but the driver of that Ford knew it was up yonder after that climb. The shute-the-shute was turned backwards now. The fair was fine, though I had to scramble to get all I needed of it. The scenery was perfectly beautiful. My very first real honest-Injun mountain sceneray, and every time I had a chance (which wasn't so very often) I took an eyeful of it. It seemed as we began going down again and could see miles and miles around among the different valleys and peaks over tops of the lovely trees and beautiful rocks that it was the most beautiful scenery I had ever beheld in my life. I wanted a picture of some of the views, but I couldn't let go of the wheel long enough to do a thing for we were going down, I tell you. It was 40 miles from Crossville to the foot of the system at Rockwood. Just two or three miles before we came down to Rockwood we ran on to a chain of curves. They were the famous hairpin surves, ten or twelve of them. It may have been hairpin curves, but if so, the hairpin was very badly bent. I have always been rather afraid of the amusement device at the fair called "Lightning," but after this trip a little thing like that will seem tame. Rockwood is a nice little town. We saw some of the machinery for coal mines as this is a mining town. We also was where its track as it rushed down the the water had swept everything in mountain side after a cloudburst a year ago, when eight people lost their lives. We saw a J. C. Penney store as we stopped, so Tootsie and I went to see if it looked at all like our McKinney Penney store, and to get a rattle for the new kinfolks. It looked not at all like Texas to us, and we were getting real homesick by now. On leaving Rockwood we traveled northeast toward Knoxville over some of the most beautiful highway paving in the shute-the-shute style, but they had it turned straight again and you could sure get up and go. That Ford was raring to get away from "them" mountains, too. Got to Knoxville at 12. Some of the loveliest estates along our way as we came into town that we had yet seen. Beautiful parks all along, even the roadsides were so dressed up we felt like it was just pictures we were seeing. Some ten or twelve miles of this, too, and each one seemingly more beautiful. The large trees, the beautifully-kept grass on the slopes leading to the top of each estate, where lovely mansions set among the most gorgeous array of flowers our eyes ever beheld, and prettiest driveways with more flowers, pretty seats and arbors with more pretty flowers. At Knoxville we had the car oiled, greased, aired, watered and gassed, all ready for the last lap of our journey. We drove out at 12:45 for Jellico, Tennessee-Kentucky over Highway No. 9, a distance of 72 miles. This was a brand new highway, wide and beautiful and through the mountains, not so much over, which suited this driver fine. One beautiful drive was around, up some, between some more and then down on the other side about 40 miles from Knoxville. Far below we saw whole towns where if we had started rolling we'd smashed the town before we could have stopped at all. We could see the railroad trying to catch us and tunneling right into the countains. Yes sir, Buddy, as they remark up there. We saw a river winding gracefully and peacefully along. We saw some rocks as large as the Melissa post office that had rolled from high on the mountains down to the lowland. We curved around and 'rund, coming down from this group of mountains and our driveway came up near the same river 12 or 15 times. In one place where the roadway was cut down between the high walls, the sand had fallen or caved in covering the road entirely and the road men with a great machine were lifting the great shovelfuls of sand off the road. We stopped and ate our lunch at 2:30 near Jacksboro. Got to Jellico about five and ran across a sign that on one side said Tennessee and on the other said Kentucky, so we were now in Kentucky. We had four more miles of highway then we turned off to go over King Gap mountain to Gatliff. This road was only very good going up was crooked and narrow, but when started down I wished for three sets of double joints in that pore Ford. We had nine miles of this including the up and down, and then we began seeing homes below and around us that indicated we were absolutely nearing Gatliff. We finally did reach the town, found the place and honked our horn at 6 o'clock at the gate of my sister, Grace's home. Now 11,089 miles from home.

We went 'round and 'round the mountain getting into the camp until I lost all sense of direction and did not ever find it again till we got up next morning and saw the sun come up, then, like "Farmer Jones" we "went by the sun." We found the folks all doing all right and the new kinfolks looking fine. Cordie was all right too. The houses all looked to be of a similar style and nearly all painted grey, that is all of the miners' homes. The superintendent's home, the doctor's, the pastor's and some few others had different colors, but in the main they were all grey. There was a big store owned by the mine, called the commissary, a fountain, a meat market. A train came in through the mountain tunnel once a day. The lowlands in the camp were filled with houses and up the sides of the mountains houses were built among the trees that from the lowlands looked beautiful and from where they looked like myriads of tiny fireflies.

There was a nice power plant where the power for the lights as well as for pumping and hauling in the mine. It rained every day except Sunday while we were there. So between showers on Saturday dad and I went up to see the plant and one of the coal mines. The superintendent of power, Mrs. McConnell, was very kind and showed us around the plant. There were seven large engines in the plant and a wonderful lot of machinery. Mr. McConnell also took us up into the mine where I got two little lumps of coal right off the side of the tunnel wall. I certainly appreciated this bit of sight-seeing as women were not allowed in the mine. The entrance had a concrete support for about forty feet back then large square timbers made were used for the framework supporting the tunnel walls back into the mine. It was black as night back in there even electric lights didn't take much dark away, as we forgot about a torch before coming up. Off the main tunnel walls were rooms dug out where the coal had been removed then miners dig on further back into the mountains and open another room. The coal from one mountain was brought through a tunnel around to the tipple near the power plant. A tipple is the place where the coal is brought to be weighed, graded and separated for the cars. It is a long wooden affair, built high up on stilts on a level with the tunnel into the mine. The coal is brought out of the mine in little cars with electric power, put onto scales and weighed. Then they are graded and separated. There are five grades of coal. I can not name all of the grades, but the largest is lump ,then there is R. S. lump, G. S. lump, bug dust, etc. The slate is taken in cars and hauled to the end of the slate dump where it is unloaded. The dump where they were unloading while we were there was a great big affair and looked like a big black hill to me. There were two tunnels near each other just above the power plant and one tipple served for the two tunnels.

In the afternoon the children and I went up on a mountain to a place they called Big Rock. It was about two-thirds of a mile up to this rock, which was about two-thirds of the distance up the mountain. Christine, Grace Lenora and I brought down some beautiful ferns from Big Rock and I brought some of them home with me. On Sunday and Sunday night we went to church where we heard Harry preach two helpful sermons. After we came home from church we put our luggage on the Ford and got all ready to get off early next morning.

DEMONSTRATION CLUBS OF COUNTY FAIR EXHIBITORS

CLUBS VIE WITH EACH OTHER IN COMPETING FOR PRIZES

Bloomdale.

One of the most interesting community home demonstration club exhibits at the twelfth annual Collin County fair is the Bloomdale club exhibit. It is interesting to note that this club has not missed exhibiting at the couny fair a single time since its organization and, as usual, they have a most commendable exhibit this year. They can always be counted on to give other clubs a run for their money, frequently being in the prize-winning class. One year they won first prize.

The Bloomdale club has been organized for about eight or nine years. Present officers include Mrs. A. G. Howard, president; Miss Mary Reeves, secretary, and Mrs. Ethel Mantooth, vice-president.

In the center of the booth is found a handmade rug of beautiful design. There's a "Moon and Star" watermelon, a large yellow spot and myriads of smaller yellow specks dotting the green melon on the outside and giving it is name. A broom is found in the booth, the broom corn being raised by R. O. (Otis) Melton, whose wife is a member of the club, and who reside just north of the city.

Among the tempting-looking articles on exhibit are these: Roasting ears, carrots, radishes, green peppers, sugar-cured country hams, eggs, peas, onions, irish and sweet potatoes, peanuts, pumpkins, squash, butterbeans, turnips, grapes, okra—but, why try to mention everything? Visit the booth for yourself. And don't forget to see their sewing and fancy work.

Lucas.

Mrs. Will M. Anderson is president and Mrs. Maud Heifner is secretary of the Lucas Demonstration club—composed of live-wire, energetic and industrious women of the Lucas community. Their club has been organized about 6 or 7 years. Last year their club won third and they have also won numerous prizes and recognition for their fine club exhibits.

The Lucas club now has a membership of about twenty-five and the club is growing in interest and in numbers all the time. They have had an exhibit every year at our county fair since they organized their club several years ago.

When the writer visited their booth, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cook of the Lucas community. Mrs. Cook being a member of that club, were present and gave us some valuable data concerning that group of demonstration club workers.

A big sugar-cured country ham is one of the first things to attract your attention and causes your mouth to water in anticipation of how good it would taste. Then, there's the squashes, watermelons, sweet and Irish potatoes, grapes, red and white radishes, tomatoes, roasting ears, cabbage, cauliflower, pears, pomegranates and many other interesting products of the garden, truck patch and field.

Their canned goods and sewing and fancy work exhibit are also attracting the interest and attention of the hundreds of fair visitors. In their booth wou will also see a large sweet potato weighing about 10 pounds, which was grown by Mr. Dunn of the Lucas community.

Of course, it was expected that Melissa would again have a community demonstration club exhibit—and sure enough we were attracted to their display. And there's a reason for your gaze finding their exhibit.

A big ham—how good it looks! —green beans, cucumbers, sage, carrots, onions, egg plants, green peppers, onions, okra, beets, roasting ears, pumpkins—all these things and more gives you a ravenous appetite, even though the thought had not occurred to you that you might be hungry.

There are 35 green vegetables in the Melissa booth seven plates of fruit, pretty fancy work and sewing of all kinds, as well as many jars of canned fruit and vegetables.

Mrs. Jake Gibson is president of the Melissa Home Demonstration club; Mrs. Henry Leigh, vice-president, and Mrs. Jim Douglas is secretary. The club has a membership of about forty women of that community, the club having been organized six years.

Our readers will remember that Melissa won second last year in the community exhibits. They have a most commendable and interesting display, and, as one visitor there said yesterday, after he had viewed the fine exhibits including the fine sweet potatoes and country ham, "boy, wouldn't the ham and 'taters be good?"

W. C. Dysart, extensive and progressive farmer of the Melissa community, helped arrange the exhibit. To say that the display is attracting much interest would be putting it mildly. Visit and see the splendid products grown in North Collin this year.

Mr. Layman takes great pride in his young horses. They are quite gentle and well trained. The mother of this baby boy is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Ed West of Princeton, while Mr. Gantt is a son of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Gantt, also of Princeton. Their marriage united two of East Collin's best-known and highly respected families.

Davidson Sunshine Cotton Booth At Collin County Fair

The Davidson Sunshine cotton, according to their usual custom, had a display at the twelfth annual Collin County fair which closed Thursday. The cotton is a state certified seed and is proving one of the most popular in the South and Southwest.

J. W. Davidson of this city is originator of this variety of cotton and has spent many years in developing the spendid variety which is now offered for sale to the farmers and landowners in all parts of the world. Wherever exhibited the Sunshine cotton always wins its share of the prizes. There are thousands of acres of this kind of cotton in Collin county and the increase in acreage each year everywhere of this cotton variety is proof of its many excellent qualities.

The seed is distributed through the J. W. Davidson & Co. of this city, who have their own gin plant located here, which gins no other variety of the fleecy staple. The many fine stalks of Davidson Sunshine cotton on display in their booth are causing hundreds of the fair visitors to pause and admire the cotton on exhibit.

They invite you to visit their display while attending the big county fair.

Fire of unknown origin broke out in the back part of Bland's Barber shop, L. A. Bland, proprietor, about 12:15 o'clock this (Tuesday) morning, doing considerable damage to the place, located on West Virginia street.

Mr. Bland's loss was partly covered by insurance.

The fire boys did some good work in putting out the flames. Aurel Beldon, member of the volunteer fire department, received a cut on his left arm as he knocked the glass door in to gain entrance to the building. Seven stitches were taken in his arm to sew up the wound.

Kasch Improved Pedigreed Cotton At County Fair

The Kasch Improved pedigreed cotton was represented at the Collin County fair, which began Monday, and which continued until Thursday night. W. L. Keen is in charge of the booth and will be glad to explain any feature of this improved cotton variety to you.

Ed Kasch of San Marcos is propagator of this variety of cotton. It is a long staple cotton, adapted to this Texas climate. It yields 40 to 44 per cent lint, Mr. Keen told a representative of the Daily Courier-Gazette and the Weekly Democrat-Gazette Monday. It is a dry weather breed, and many fields of Kasch cotton are found in this county in all directions from McKinney.

TWELFTH ANNUAL COLLIN FAIR OPENS

Eight Die In Plane Crashes

Prospects Point to One of Best Fairs In History

EXHIBITORS COMMENCE ARRIVING HERE EARLY MONDAY; JOHN H. FRANCES SHOWS ARRIVE AND PUT UP ON FAIR GROUNDS; FAIR OFFICIALLY OPENS AT 4 O'CLOCK THIS AFTERNOON; FAIR WEATHER PREVAILS MONDAY.

McKinney once again has thrown open its portal to every citizen and resident of Collin county and to all other visitors and extends the glad hand to thousands of visitors to the twelfth annual Collin County Fair.

Already famous throughout the state as the biggest free county-wide exposition in Texas, the event this year again attracted thousands of visitors not only from Collin county, but from all over North Texas as well.

The fair was scheduled to formally open at 4 o'clock (Monday) afternoon, the time of beginning being purposely delayed to give exhibitors plenty of time Monday to bring in their displays and get them arranged in booths, thus eliminating the necessity of working on Sunday.

President A. M. Scott, Secretary Chas. W. Graves and all department heads, officials and fair workers, expressed themselves as delighted with prospects for a wonderful county exposition which had its opening here Monday and which came to a summessful close on Thursday night.

To President Scott and other officials goes great credit for prearrangements and working out of all details. Nothing was lacking that might have added to the enjoyment and convenience of fair visitors.

Shows Arrive Sunday.

The John H. Frances shows, with twenty-five cars and 400 persons, arrived in McKinney Sunday afternoon from Ada, Okla., where they played the past week and have been busy today erecting their tents, shows, booths, etc., for a week's engagement on the fair grounds. Their shows have been erected on the lots both north and east of the coliseum where they will play through Saturday night.

Show Window of Collin.

The Collin County fair is the show window of Collin county, reflecting the prosperity and progress made along the lines of better agricultural methods and live stock raising. Farm standards over the county are being raised each year through the fair's influence. The fair has pointed out the way toward a balanced farming program—through diversification—and thus the prosperity of the county has been enhanced.

President Scott and his assistants assert that four days of interest, instruction and amusement await each and every visitor at the twelfth annual Collin county fair.

The writer has viewed most of the exhibits which will be on display at the fair. To say that they are splendid would be describing it mildly. In fact, you will likely be surprised at the wonderful products grown in Collin county and you will be amazed with the variety of products grown and raised right here in old Collin.

McKinney as well as every community in the county, feels the fair atmosphere, its influence touching all business and other activity.

Local Merchants Commended.

McKinney merchants are again to be commended for their public enterprise and philanthropic interest in the county exposition, as they have again donated money for the prizes which will be given winners in all classes and departments of the fair. In this way there is no need for an admittance charge to the fair, making the event within the reach of the humblest and poorest in this world's goods in the county.

Mrs. J. Ed McGee, county home demonstration agent, and J. P. McCullough, Collin county farm agent, were both extremely busy as they helped at the fair grounds in the various departments. Mrs. McGee reports twenty-nine community home demonstration club exhibits in the coliseum again this year and from the appearance of them all it looks like there will be some keen competition among the various clubs again this year.

Other Features.

The poultry, in the shed adjoining the coliseum, was again a fair feature this year, as also the fine live stock on exhibit.

Considerable interest is being shown in the horse and pony show on Wednesday night near the livestock barns, and in the pony show the last night (Thursday) of the fair.

In fact, it appeared as though all departments were better this year than ever before—this being the twelfth annual Collin County fair to be held in McKinney.

Our good old friend, John C. Williams, was able to walk up town Saturday morning for the first time in a month. He dropped around to renew his Daily Courier-Gazette subscription. These editors are both mighty glad to note the improved condition of his health. He and his dear old wife are among the most highly esteemed couples of our city. Their only daughter, Mrs. James O. Latham, formerly Miss Ruby Williams, has been living in Chicago, for the past three years, where her husband is office manager for Bradstreet. She and Mr. Latham were married four years ago. She, herself, is an expert stenographer, formerly holding positions with the late Hon. R. C. Merritt, then in the office of the Collin County Mill & Elevator company, and later with the Federal Reserve bank in Dallas until her marriage.

John K. Wilson, undertaker and business man of Princeton, was in McKinney Monday to meet his sister-in-law, Mrs. C. J. Thomason, of Gainesville, who came over to visit in the Wilson home at Princeton for a few days. Mrs. Thomason is the twin sister of Mrs. John K. Wilson. Her husband is the M. K. & T. railway agent at Gainesville.

YOUR HOME TOWN

THE DOORS SWING OPEN.

The big four-day event which every loyal Collin citizen has been eagerly awaiting for a whole year got under way Monday. We refer to the opening of the twelfth annual Collin County fair, which was officially opened at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon down at the coliseum. Of all celebrations held in the county each year, precedence should be given the Collin County fair. Of course it's interesting to go to our free county fair. But it's something much more than merely interesting. It's educational, enlightening and fills us with a greater pride for our own county and we are imbued with a spirit to try to equal the products we have seen on exhibit at the fair. Come one, come all, Collin county citizens. It's your own fair and if you don't support it in every way possible it's a certainty no one else will. And don't let "George" do all the work, by bringing in his exhibits. Boosting the exposition and bringing other folks to the fair. Perhaps George is sick and cannot be there at all. Too bad, isn't it? But, let "George" take care of his own affairs—at least during the duration of the fair—and you attend to your own affairs by attending the biggest free county fair in the state. That's the Collin County fair.

IN OUR FLOWER GARDENS.

Cool autumn weather, together with refreshing showers, have caused McKinney flower gardens, that formerly appeared as though there was no sign of life, to freshen up and start blooming again. If you have driven over the city the past few days you no doubt had your attention attracted by the many beautiful flowering plants to be seen in scores of McKinney yards. Y. H. T., if he could, would name all these flowers to you, but sorry to relate, he doesn't know the names of many of these sweet, fragrant blossoms of gorgeous beauty and rare color. He enjoys them, however, as readers of this column, no doubt, are aware by now. We doubt if any resident of the fair little city of McKinney appreciates and loves flowers more than we do. The scenes of blossoming plants causes many a heart to become lighter and lessens one's burdens. Cultivate and treasure these flowers in your yard; in so doing you will be spreading happiness and joy to friends, neighbors and passers-by at your home.

A BEAUTY.

T. T. Phillips, our neighbor, invited us over to his home on North Church street recently to observe a beautiful flower—the first of its kind we have ever seen. It is called the spider lily, and is a delicate blossoming plant, grown from a bulb of beautiful red color. In driving over the city we notice a few other gardens containing this flower. And do you know that there are only a very few flowers that this rich black land of McKinney and Collin county can not grow? Our soil is adapted to their luxuriant growth and, because of this fact, our citizens should plant more of them.

R. B. Tilton of Blue Ridge attended the barber's meeting in the McKinney Chamber of Commerce auditorium Thursday night and was an interested listener to the proceedings. Mr. Tilton was reared in Blue Ridge, where he has conducted a barber shop for twenty years. He is a veteran White Legorn chicken fancier, and has advertised his chickens in the columns of this paper in former years. However, he is not so extensively engaged in the poultry business now. His wife was formerly Miss Lillian McCarley, daughter of the late Tom McCarley, an early Blue Ridge settler. This editor has known Mr. Tilton for a number of years, and was glad to renew acquaintanceship again with him on this occasion.

We are glad to report the condition of Clyde Doyle to be somewhat improved. Young Mr. Doyle is the son of Hon. John Doyle and wife. He has had a bone trouble in one of his legs that has kept him in bed for several months in a brace in an effort to arrest and cure the diseased bone. Clyde is a fine young fellow of about 21, whose general health is fairly good. He eats heartily, sleeps well and does not suffer a great deal other than being very weary of lying flat on his back in bed for so long a time. However he bears patiently his confinement to the bed in the hope that a cure may be ultimately effected.

Paris recently voted a band tax. As a result the Paris Morning News says: "Many newspapers over Texas are commenting on the recent action of the voters of Paris in voting a band-tax for the support of the municipal band. Not all the editors agreed that it was a wise plan, but most of them endorsed it. Well, if folks would support the band without a tax we would very much prefer the volunteer plan, but Paris had tried this and we were not supporting the band as it should be supported, so the tax was the next move, or else dispense with the band. Paris wants a good band and now the town is assured of one through the years to come."

DALLAS CONTRACTOR DIES IN FALL NEAR LEONA, TEXAS

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 7.—Aerial accidents claimed eight lives in widely separated parts of the country yesterday.

Four men were killed when a monoplane crashed from 1,500 feet near Leona, Texas. A torn wing folded over the cockpit and prevented their jumping. The dead: Marvin Potter, Teague, Texas; Lieut. Jack Brooks, pilot, Dallas; Leon Lynch, Centerville, Texas, and Allen Powell, Centerville.

Bryan Heflinn, pilot, of Huntisville, Mo., and Paul Rowland and Miss Deldee Hardin of Moberly, Mo., passengers, were killed when the airplane in which they were flying crashed from 400 feet during ceremonies at the opening of a municipal airport at Moberly.

Thousands of persons saw Baker Diehl, 22, plunge 2,800 feet to death when his parachute failed to open at Altoona, Pa. He leaped from a plane piloted by Lieut. Ernest Hewitt.

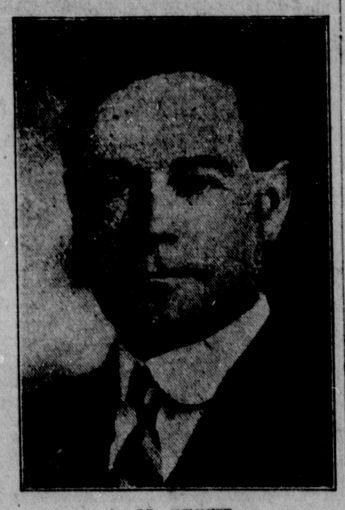
FRANCES SHOWS ARRIVE IN CITY LATE SUNDAY

What is a fair without a show?

The answer to this question is that regardless how great a success the fair turns out to be, a carnival would have made it a much more successful event.

The whistle of the train bringing in the John H. Frances shows, who are feature attractions at the Collin County fair which opened Monday, was the occasion for bringing out hundreds of our townspeople down to the station about 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon to see the train of twenty-five heavily loaded cars pull in. The show train resembled a circus. The Frances shows boast of carrying 400 people with them and wherever they play are always in great demand each succeeding year.

FAIR PRESIDENT



A. M. SCOTT.

A. M. Scott has proved a most efficient and capable county fair head. No duty has been too difficult, too large or too small, for his most careful personal investigation. Mr. Scott has left nothing undone to make this fair one of the most successful in the history of the county. His untiring efforts in the interest of the great four-day event has been the source of much favorable comment on the part of our entire citizenship.

Mr. Scott succeeds the late Glen Stiff as head of our well established county exposition. Mr. Stiff was a faithful worker for its success and Mr. Scott is proving a worthy successor to the late Mr. Stiff as its head in carrying into effect his plans.

Abe McNell, special delivery, appointed about December 1, 1922.

N. H. (Nath) Evans was a business caller at our office Thursday. He stated that his twin brother, J. J. (June) Evans, was not so well as he had been. June Evans is a good farmer, a clever, whole-souled fellow, whose continued ill health is a source of regret to his many friends in and around McKinney. This editor has known and appreciated June Evans' friendship for many years and we are hoping to hear of a speedy turn for the better in the state of his health.

He said it had a very creditable parade and the people seemed anxious to see the circus and turned out in multitudes that ran over the traffic control officers.

PECAN CRACKING FACTORY FOR HUGO, OKLAHOMA

One of the most welcome announcements in commercial and industrial circles to be made at Hugo, Oklahoma in many years was the statement of Alex Woldert of Tyler, Texas that he was installing a pecan cracking plant in connection with his peanut factory.

He announced that his company would be in a position to give employment in Hugo during the winter months and that there was no limit to the number he could use.

On a recent visit to the plant of Mr. Woldert at Tyler by a delegation of Hugo business men it was learned that there were 800 women engaged in this work there. It was also learned that the work was done under the "piece work" plan in that all employes are paid in proportion to their skill and ability. The wages there ran from $1.25 to $2.75 per day.

Mr. Woldert stated that he would be in a position to give employment to at least 150 as soon as his machinery was installed at Hugo and that the work will last all during the winter.

LITTLE BOY'S DEATH FROM BULLET WOUND

JOHNNIE RAY BAGWILL, 7, BURIED AT ALTOGA SUNDAY

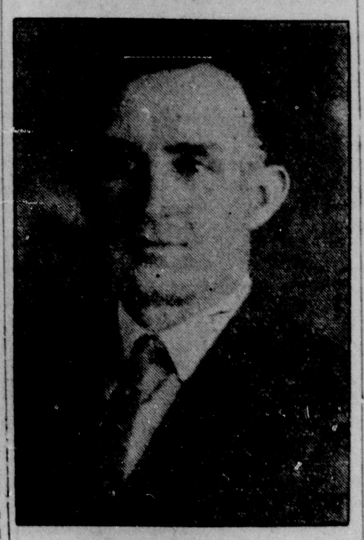
Johnnie Ray Bagwill, 7 years old, died in the McKinney City hospital at 8:15 o'clock, Saturday night, from the effects of an accidental pistol shot wound sustained about a month ago. The child's father, Elmer Bagwill, of Viney Grove No. 2, in putting a pistol in a dresser drawer accidentally discharged the weapon. The bullet took effect in the jaw of the child. The boy fast improved and seemed to be fully recovered until Thursday when he took worse. He was brought to the McKinney City hospital Friday, but rapidly grew worse and passed away at the above stated hour.

The burial took place in the Altoga cemetery at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Rev. John Hilger conducting the funeral. The interment was under the direction of John K. Wilson, undertaker of Princeton.

Johnnie Ray Bagwill was born April 22, 1922. His mother preceded him to the grave in September, 1928. The little fellow is survived by his heartbroken father, one little brother and two sisters. The surviving relatives have the deepest sympathy of everyone in the regretable tragedy that took away their little son and brother.

Mrs. E. P. Gifford, 1207 Frost street, Waco, remits $1.50 for the Weekly Democrat-Gazette for another year in advance. Mrs. Gifford is the twin sister of Miss Nettie Stroup, head of a big church institutional house in the city of New Orleans. These twin sisters were born and reared in the Verona community, this county, being daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. M. N. Stroup, pioneer couple of revered memory of that section of our county.

FAIR SECRETARY



CHAS. W. GRAVES.

Chas. W. Graves has efficiently acted as secretary of the twelfth annual Collin County fair which opened here Monday. The duties of a fair secretary are as varied as they are numerous and Mr. Graves has met and solved each problem coming under his supervision.

Mr. Graves is the second secretary in the history of the fair, the late C. W. Smith having acted in that important capacity ever since it was organized up until his death several weeks ago. Mr. Smith was one of the most efficient and painstaking fair secretaries a county fair could have, and Mr. Graves, in his newfound duties, is proving a worthy successor to the lamented Mr. Smith.

Zebras Do Laugh And Enjoy Life

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 7.—Here is positive evidence that zebras do laugh and enjoy life. "Laughing Charlie" is a member of the highly educated group of zebras with the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus, which will make it's appearance at the State Fair of Texas, Oct. 12 to 27. When snapped he was conveying Dorothy Ellet, one of the beautiful girl performers about the circus grounds.

Austin King, noted trainer of animals, has twelve zebras with the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus, which are said to have advanced farther in education than any predecessors. They have a most unusual routine and show that when properly handled they become domesticated and absorb as much knowledge as the average horse.

Hagenbeck-Wallace have many displays of domestic animals, while the trained wild animal numbers are said to be the greatest ever offered.

RED CROSS LEADER INVITES THE MOTHERS

TO BRING THEIR BABIES TO BOOTH AT THE COUNTY FAIR

Mrs. Dan W. Scott, chairman of the nutrition committee of the Collin county chapter American Red Cross, cordially invites mothers of our city and county to bring their children in to the Red Cross booth, that will be opened to them at the coliseum during the twelfth annual Collin County fair, to be held in McKinney October 7, 8, 9, and 10. The booth will be opened on October 8, 9, and 10, with a special Red Cross welfare worker from Dallas in charge. Children from infancy up to school age will be weighed, measured and tested by this special Red Cross expert free of charge and the mothers will be given advice relative to the welfare and health of their children.

Mrs. Scott also states that a restroom will be provided for mothers with their babies, so as to render them as comfortable as possible, while attending our county fair and the Red Cross booth.

Mrs. Scott states that the Red Cross nutritionist will arrive in McKinney to commence her work in the schools here from the first to the fifteenth of January, and to remain here for four and one-half months.

Mrs. Scott has taken a great interest in her work as nutrition chairman, which is a labor of love without compensation for her trouble and given freely because of her love for the children of our city and county, whose health and future mental and physical development depends so much upon proper nourishment and timely attention to their diet and general health during their pre-school years.

Our good friend, A. J. Jones, was here from Princeton, Saturday, and gave us a business call. He lives about two miles north of Princeton on the Longneck road, where he has resided for seven years on a farm owned by J. W. (Uncle Billie) Bomar of this city. Mr. Jones is one of the best farmers that we know of. He is getting about a third of a bale of cotton per acre this year. He also raised a good corn crop. We always notice that Mr. Jones raises as good yields of staple crops as are grown by anybody in his section taking it one year with another.

J. C. WILLIAMS PAYS TRIBUTE TO FRIEND'S MEMORY

J. C. Williams of this city was a sincere mourner at the bier of his lifelong friend, William Duncan, who was buried Saturday afternoon, in Pecan Grove cemetery. They were both born in the same neighborhood on English creek in Cocke county, Tennessee. In early young manhood both of them came to Texas and settled west of McKinney, where they were again neighbors for twenty years. Mr. Williams says that "there was no more honest or kind-hearted man than Bill Duncan. He may have seemed rather gruff in his nature to some people, but when you knew his principles and was associated with him intimately you soon learned that he possessed a great tender heart, full of sympathy for the right and for the weak, the needy and those in trouble."

Car Borrowed For A Ride Out In Wichita? Recovered In Lawton

Ellis Lanier of Ash Grove and Albert Dickerson of Chambersville both recently left for West Texas to pick cotton when they had the misfortune of getting their Ford car stolen at Wichita Falls. The car was found a few days later at Lawton, Okla., abandoned and was identified when a bottle of medicine that had been filled at a drug store in this city was found in the car. Ellis Lanier's father and brother, John Lanier and Owen Lanier left Friday for Lawton to bring the car back. They found the car just as the boys left it, and was not stripped, even the luggage that the boys were carrying being in it. They suppose that someone borrowed the car for a ride but had no use for the luggage.

Mrs. Kerby, wife of former Sheriff Will A. Kerby, is using our classified columns to advertise for a lost bar pin. She lost it somewhere in McKinney Friday afternoon or night. It is a white gold, open-work pin with sapphires in the center surrounded by pearls with two small diamonds. Mrs. Kerby is very anxious to recover her bar pin, which she prizes for sentimental reasons more than for anything else, and anyone finding it will be suitably rewarded by her if you will return it to her or phone her at 470.

MRS. W. O. FEESE DIED FRIDAY IN OKLAHOMA

FORMERLY MISS MARY HAMMOND REARED IN McKINNEY

Mrs. Wylie O. Feese, aged about 45, died Friday, October 4, at her late home at Woodward, Okla. She had been in poor health for several months, but was critically ill only about three or four hours when she passed away. Her maiden name was Mary Hammond, and she was reared in McKinney, where she attended school and was married in 1902.

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Hammond, now of Fort Worth, but formerly of McKinney, where Mr. Hammond was engaged in the dry goods business for several years with J. H. Sneed. She is also survived by her husband and nine children, and by three brothers and three sisters, as follows: Tom Hammond and Dr. John Hammond, both of Abilene, Texas; Ray Hammond, Calif.; Mrs. Dwight Williams of Abilene, Texas; Mrs. Clyde Bennett, and Mrs. Dan Barfield, both of Fort Worth.

The deceased was a member of the Presbyterian church and was a devout christian daughter, wife, mother and sister, whose death is mourned by many friends here at her former home. The deceased was a niece of Mrs. T. L. Dinsmore, and a cousin of Mrs. James S. (Scotty) Forsyth, Mrs. Charles A. Turrentine and Emmitt Dinsmore, all of McKinney.

PRESIDENT OF UNITED CHARITIES ASSOCIATION HERE

ISSUES CALL FOR VOLUNTARY CASH DONATIONS; NEED FUNDS BADLY

Editor F. C. Thompson, president of the United Charities organization, issues the following call for funds to carry on the work of relieving distress in our midst. Read what he says in the following and then respond as liberally as you can for this worth cause.

Year Nears Close.

November closes the local charity year. Each November the United Charity organization closes its annual term and renders a report of its receipts and disbursements at which time there is a re-election of officers to take charge from that date till November 1930. Scotty Forsyth, the present faithful and trustworthy disburser, who has given so much of his time, tells us that the treasury account is minus a balance with which to meet worthy applicants for help. We are just beginning to face trying weather conditions when emergency calls come for the relief of suffering children and adults. It is hard for the public to realize the pitiful condition that exists here in instances even in this community of plenty. There have been several in recent weeks who have sent in some cash and others gave wearing apparel. We are doing our best to come to the end of the year absolutely out of debt, hence, we issue a call for help. Quite a number who have not contributed have kindly told us that they are going to help in this worthy cause. If it is not done soon we fear there will be needless suffering in McKinney. Won't you help now?

F. C. THOMPSON,
Chairman United Charity Association.

SERVICES FIRST BAPTIST SUNDAY WERE IMPRESSIVE

MORNING SERVICES REVERSED; DR. HUDSON PREACHES TWICE

The morning services at the First Baptist church Sunday were the most impressive and interesting held there in many years. Dr. M. E. Hudson, the beloved pastor, who has been absent from the pulpit on account of injuries he received in an auto wreck about three weeks ago, delivered a very forceful sermon.

Nearly every seat in the main auditorium and the adjoining Sunday school room was occupied by attentive worshippers.

Dr. Hudson, on account of his physical condition, remained seated during the delivery of his sermon. The hearty sympathy of the large congregation to Dr. Hudson was shown in the attentive manner in which they received the sermon. At the conclusion of the sermon, Dr. Hudson, with the assistance of the board of deacons, administered the Lord's Supper.

Services Reversed.

There were more than 400 in the Sunday school of this church and Chas. Bryan, the superintendent, was well pleased with the attendance. As Sunday was the day which the First Baptist church reversed the morning services, the preaching hour came first, followed by the Sunday school. It was pleasing to the pastor and all officers and teachers of the Sunday school in the happy manner in which the members of this church responded to the change. So far as known this is the first church in Texas to reverse the morning services and the change and results are being eagerly watched by members of all denominations in this city and over the state.

RESPECTED OLD FARMER OF 89 STILL ACTIVE

UNCLE BOB MOORE SETTLED NEAR MELISSA 74 YEARS AGO

Our office received a welcome call Thursday, from our genial old friend, R. E. Moore, who lives on his big farm about seven or eight miles north east of McKinney. He was accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. W. M. Shipley. He dropped in to renew his Weekly Democrat-Gazette and Semi-Weekly Farm News subscription, paying $2.25 for both papers, for another year in advance.

Mr. Moore was born November 28, 1840, twelve miles south of Springfield, Illinois. When he was only fifteen years old he came to Texas in 1855 and settled near Melissa. He still lives on his big farm, some of which he bought before the Civil war.

Uncle Bob served in the Confederate army in Gen. Cano's brigade and saw service in several different states. He was mustered out of the service May 15, 1865 at Shreveport, La.

He was married May 13, 1869 to Miss Georgeann Clements, whom he claims was the first white girl baby to be born in McKinney. She was born at a location near the northwest corner of the public square. She died many years ago.

Uncle Bob has receipts from the Confederacy for corn that he provided for the soldiers, but the government was never able to pay for.

Few people are more interesting than Uncle Bob on the early history of this county, in which he has lived for about three-quarters of a century. He is still enjoying good health. He has his second eyesight and some time reads without the aid of glasses.

He lives alone at his old home, but one of his two sons, G. W. Moore, and wife who live near by are frequent visitors to their father during the day. Mr. Moore works in his garden and exercises about his place caring for his chickens and doing chores. He recently purchased a pretty registered young Jersey heifer from Miss Mary Lou Graves of Melissa, which he says he will keep for a milk cow. Mr. Moore is a great admirer of registered Jerseys and says that he owned he second registered Jersey bull that was ever brought to this county. The late Judge W. H. Andrews brought the first one.

Mr. Moore's other son, Joe C. Moore, is also helping to run the old home place of his father.

This editor has enjoyed the intimate friendship of Uncle Bob for nearly forty years. We were glad to meet up with him again and to see this old veteran, who is nearing his 89th birthday, feeling so well and getting about our streets as well as lots of men can walk who are twenty-five years younger than he.

Uncle Bob is one of the few surviving early settlers who rendered service to the state prior to the Civil war in the Texas rangers. In that capacity he helped protect our frontiers in those early times from depredations of the Indians and guard the crude log homes of the early settler from the treacherous Red Man.

BOTH SAD AND GLAD NEWS

BY ELD. R. C. HORN

I learned recently of the passing from this life to that better life, of my boyhood associate, my long-time neighbor, my war comrade and my beloved friend and brother, J. Lawson Kerr. He passed away at his late home in Nashville, Tenn. As his condition was such as to give no hope for any permanent improvement, while I am sad at his loss to his loved ones, I feel glad that he is now beyond sorrow, pain and death for to die as a Christian is a glorious change from this life.

Our ages differed by 15 days only. I was 85 years old April 26, last, and he was 85, May 11, 1929. When we were 15 years old we became neighbor boys in Texas having come with our parents from Middle Tennessee.

Our fathers' farms joined and we grew up near-neighbors. We were schoolmates in our boyhood. When 18 years old we both enlisted in the same company as Confederate soldiers. For nearly three years we were together in camp life and in battles. When the war was over and we had attended school until I was 26 years old, and he was 27, we both married good young ladies of Tennessee, and settled down to farm as near-neighbors. We lived about a mile apart for nearly a half century before he moved to Nashville.

When I taught the Vineland school his two sons were students in my school. My family of five children and his of six grew up as neighbors and schoolmates. I was a minister in the Christian church and he is an elder in the Cumberland Presbyterian church. So far as I call to mind we never let this difference mar our friendship in the least. He frequently attended my preaching at Vineland. With this intimate association I never new him to do an act that was wrong to his neighbor or his country. He was a good man and he and his good wife have given the world and church six honorable citizens. I extend my love and sympathy to them in their sorrow. May the Lord bless and keep them until their time comes to pass over.

Lawson Kerr was well born. We have never had better citizens than the Kerrs. The older ones that have gone to their reward known by their friends as "Uncle Green," "Uncle Jimmy," and "Uncle Whit" were men of noble characters. We have three of their descendants in McKinney, who are an honor to our city. I refer to W. M. Kerr, son of Maj. Green Kerr; W. W. and J. B. Kerr, sons of Jas. O. Kerr, all of the second generation. Jerome Sneed, a grandson of Maj. G. W. Kerr, is another honorable citizen of McKinney. Another grandson who stands high in church and state is Rev. Glen Sneed of Dallas, who has been pastor of one of the leading Presbyterian churches there for many years. I could mention by name many others and only speak of very worthy citizens.

Just before his death Mr. Kerr wrote back that he greatly enjoyed reading the sketches appearing in these papers written by Eld. R. C. Horn.

C. M. COOPER TO ATTEND PENNEY MEET IN DALLAS

OPENS AT BAKER HOTEL, DALLAS; TO CONTINUE DURING THE WEEK

Weitlich, merchandise department; J. A. Fitz Randolph, sales; D. C. Andrews, district manager; C. H. McClure, real estate. Seven buyers for important merchandise departments will also be present.

The fall convention at Dallas, is one of the fifteen district convention meeting held at central points throughout the country and attended by over 1,400 J. C. Penney Co. store managers.

"The fall convention this year," said Mr. Cooper, "will be largely devoted to sales promotion, in line with the Gold Star sales contest recently inaugurated by the company. This contest is not only to increase sales, but to improve service to the public by bringing individual clerks in closer contact with the entire organization, thus giving them a better understanding of efficient selling methods.

"This year has already seen the greatest growth ever made in the development of the J. C. Penney Co. More store have been opened than in any previous year, and sales are larger than ever before, Mr. Cooper said.

Mr. Cooper states that four days of the convention will be given over to conferences with individual members of the convention committees and to buying.

TYLER LADY VISITS PARENTS AT MELISSA

Mrs. Malcolm Martin of Tyler, was in McKinney, Thursday afternoon, shopping and visiting. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Ethel Parris Anderson, Melissa. Mrs. Martin's husband is district salesmanager at Tyler for the Reynolds Tobacco company and is a fine young business man who was also born and reared at Melissa. Mr. Martin came up to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Parris, an honored old pioneer couple of Melissa. She recently retufned from more than a two months' visit at the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Rev. Harry Hatler and wife, at Gatliff, Ky. When Mrs. Martin got up to the home of her parents at Melissa this week, she found her mother suffering from a broken breast-bone sustained in a fall and her father suffering from a mild attack of the flu or summer cold.

Magnolia Co. Booth State Fair

According to established custom, exhibitors at fairs come under the classification of those who set up displays of their products or wares for the inspection and information of fair visitors.

edent at the State Fair of Texas. But this year, like the past two years, visitors to the State Fair of Texas at Dallas will find something different at the Magnolia booth. They will find no display of gasoline, motor oils, lubricants, and other petroleum products. They will listen to no lengthy talks about the value of this or that product.

Instead, they will find only a cool, comfortable spot where they can rest and listen to concerts given by the Magnolia orchestra. The Magnolia Petroleum company's own orchestra, made up of Magnolia employes and directed by Mr. L. E. Adler, will give daily concerts at the booth. These concerts will be given in the afternoon and at night until the grand stand closes.

"Oil displays were discontinued by us," E. P. Angus, vice-president, said, "because there is nothing beautiful or attractive in such displays. No one, not even an expert, can tell the value of an oil by the way it looks. We believe that visitors to the fair will appreciate high-class musical entertainment in a comfortable, cozy place, with plenty of ice water, rather than looking at a fancy display of bottles and cans."

"The Magnolia orchestra," Mr. E. P. Angus, vice-president, said, "is familiar to thousands of radio listeners of the Southwest through its broadcast work over WRR, municipal station, Dallas, for a period of several years, and we invite fair visitors to make the Magnolia booth a meeting place with friends."

New Prayer Book In Use on Dec. 1

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 4.—President Hoover Wednesday was commended for his "great efforts to gain world peace" by the House of Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church in a resolution assuring him of "devoted support."

The resoultion, introduced by Bishop Phillip Cook of Delaware and passed by acclamation by 100 bishops at the first annual meeting of the house, also extended greetings to Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain.

"The present outlook for permanent peace between nations gives greater hope than ever before in history," the resolution read. "This situation calls for the united support of all people of good will and places a responsibility especially on the followers of Him who is called the Prince of Peace."

The appointment of the first Sunday in Advent, Dec. 1, as a day for the formal introduction of the revised praayer book of the Episcopal Church was one of the principal actions of the house on the opening of business sessions of the meeting. A statement by Bishop John Gardner Murray of Maryland, presiding bishop, declaring the publication of the new prayer book, the result of fifteen years' work, "an epoch in the history of the church," was followed by the adoption of the resolution. The day of introduction was designated as one of prayer and thanksgiving.

A petition from an unnamed woman communicant requesting that "unfermented grape juice" be used in communion services instead of wine was tabled on motion of Bishop William T. Manning of New York.

THE FRANCIS MIDWAY AT COLLIN COUNTY FAIR

Shouts of workmen mingling with the cries of wild animals announced the arrival late yesterday afternoon of the John Frances shows who are contracted for the amusement feature on the Midway of the Collin County fair, which opens today.

The show was unloaded on arrival and according to the officials of the company, all will be in readiness for the opening of the fair today. Here is a picture of the midway as it will appear to the visiting patron.

AN INVITATION TO VISITORS AT TEXAS STATE FAIR--Oct. 12 to 27

See The Giant that is Building Texas . . .

AGAIN the great Texas State Fair draws the interest of all Texas with its countless attractions! Texas goes on exhibit—Texas agriculture, Texas livestock, Texas manufacturing, Texas commerce, Texas amusement, Texas art!

And, there's a distinctly New attraction that you must see—the Giant that is Building Texas! This giant exhibit is near the rear entrance of the Automobile and Manufacturers' building.

The central figure of the exhibit is a Giant holding in his powerful hands a large pipe line running from the gas fields to a medieval castle, which is shown in the process of building. One face of the castle takes the shape of the State of Texas and shows a map of Lone Star Gas Company's pipe lines serving 200 Texas communities.

Animated figures, each specially modeled for the exhibit, carry materials up the castle walls in the act of constructing the castle, while moving models of auto trucks carry various materials used in the gas business up to the castle. Around the feet of the Giant are depicted with animated figures many activities of the gas industry, such as compressor stations, gasoline plants, drilling rigs, etc., in motion. The whole symbolizes GAS —the Giant that is Building Texas.

At the rear of the exhibit proper is a most interesting display of modern gas appliances, in actual use, including STARGAS—the Compressed Natural Gas, in portable cylinders. STARGAS starts where gas mains stop—a special boon to rural and suburban home owners!

We especially invite Texas State Fair visitors to see the Giant that is Building Texas—one of the most unique exhibits at the Fair this year!

Are You Prepared for COLD WEATHER?

WM. DUNCAN SUBSTANTIAL RETIRED OLD WEST COLLIN FARMER BURIED AT M'KINNEY

OBSEQUIES SATURDAY AFTERNOON—BORN IN TENNESSEE NEARLY 80 YEARS AGO—LIVED IN TEXAS ABOUT 60 YEARS—SURVIVED BY FIVE FAMILY OF CHILDREN.

William Duncan, 79, one of our county's pre-eminently successful farmers and wost widely known citizens, passed away at 10:35 o'clock Friday morning, October 4, at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. U. H. Chandler, in the Foote community, seven miles west of McKinney, after being confined to his bed for the last three weeks. However, he had been in declining health for the past year. His death causes much regret among a host of old friends and acquaintances in various parts of the county.

Born in Tennessee.

The deceased was born February 16, 1850, near Newport in Cocke county, Tennessee. When he was a youth about grown, he came to Texas. His father was a farmer and tanner by trade. After coming to Texas he worked as a farm hand for his uncle, Tom McDonald, the father of Tony McDonald, near McKinney. He later married and settled in the Foote community, near where he died, and where he reared a family of fine children.

Succeeded in a Business Way.

By dint of hard labor, frugality, honesty and good business ability he succeeded in accumulating considerable real estate, both town and country property. At the time of his death, he owned several farms in this county, besides property in the towns of San Benito, La Ferria and Mercedes in the Rio Grande valley country, South Texas, where he also owned some citrus lands. He also owned land in West Texas and in Oklahoma besides owning bank stock and other investments.

In his younger days in Collin on the farm, he was engaged in the threshing machine business and also raised considerable live stock. He was a man of rugged character, but with a tender heart for the less fortunate. He did many acts of charity and kindly deeds towards others, many of which were never known of unless told by the beneficiaries of his liberality. He never had much school, but he had a mind that was well stored with much practical knowledge. He took an active interest in political affairs and the welfare of his country. He was patriotic and loyal to authorities, and was ambitious to see his country prosperous and live at peace both internally and with other nations.

His Survivors.

He was one of a family of four sons and one daughter, only one of whom, James P. Duncan, of the Bowlby community, west of town, survives his death. One of his brothers, John Duncan, died an old bachelor in Tennessee. Another of his brothers, Dan Duncan, once resided in West Collin, but passed away some years ago at Hickory, Okla., where he had moved. His only full sister was Mrs. Lizzie Denton, who lived and died in Tennessee. He is the father of eleven children, nine of whom survive his death as follows: T. P. Duncan, prominent flour miller of Wichita Falls, Texas; John O. Duncan, of Santa Maria, Texas; Isaac Duncan, merchant of Foote, west of McKinney, William Duncan, prominent young business man of San Antonio; Mrs. H. C. Tarpley of Frisco; Mrs. John M. White of McKinney; Mrs. H. H. Chandler of Foote, at whose home he passed away; Mrs. Charles F. Sanders, 2725 Hood street, Dallas and Mrs. Claude Gardiner, 318 North Maywood, Dallas. Two daughters preceded him to the grave—Mrs. J. Frank Coggins and Mrs. Irene Straughan, both of McKinney. He is also survived by 21 grandchildren and 3 great-grandchildren.

FUNERAL IS HELD FOR YOUTH KILLED IN RECENT WRECK

LEE HICKS GILLIAND NEVER REGAINED CONSCIOUSNESS AFTER ACCIDENT

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock for Lee Hicks Gilliland, who died Sunday evening at 6:15 at the McKinney hospital from injuries received when a northbound interurban struck his automobile late Saturday night while he and a boy friend were returning home, each in his own car. His friend in the rear seemed to think he saw the interurban, but not in time to stop and tried to make it across, and the interurban hit the rear wheels of his car throwing him out, and dragging his car 100 yards down the track, and demolishing the car.

He suffered internal injuries and was rushed to the McKinney City hospital; he never regained consciousness. He died Sunday evening at 6:15. The deceased was 22 years old, the baby of eleven children, jolly and always the life of the home. He was a member of the Baptist church, joining just a few days before his death, with the boy friend who was a witness to the fatal accident. Both surrendered their lives for special work in the church.

He is survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Gilliland and the following brothers and sisters: Willie Gilliland, Mexia; Mrs. Oliver Turner, Odessa; Jimmy Gilliland, Hot Springs, Ark.; Mrs. Cohen Hagy, Josephine; Mrs. Byrd Brooks, Frisco; Mrs. Ernest Smith, Allen; Miss Tennie Mae Gilliland, Allen, and Paul Gilliland, Allen.

The funeral services were conducted at the Allen Baptist church by a long-time friend of the family, Rev. Dale of Madill, Oklahoma, and his pastor, Rev. Scott W. Hickey. Burial followed in the Allen cemetery where the new-made grave was covered with a profusion of floral offerings, which were the tokens of love and sympathy for the deceased and family.

Funeral arrangements were in charge of S. J. Massie & Son, undertakers. Active pallbearers were his boy friends: G. W. Henderson, Carl Holt, Earl Story, Alvin Story, Leffell Story, J. L. Angle, Clarence Boren and George Norris.

"There are times when sorrows are so sensitive that even a sunbeam jars the soul. Times when the sun seems effaced and our hearts are heavy and all seems dark." In the midst of plans and even pleasures came this deplorable accident, which came like a blast and snuffed out one of the most loyal lives in the Allen community. These inevitable interruptions come in every age in youth as well as age.

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath
And stars to set—but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death?
We know when the moon shall wane
When summer's birds from far shall cross the sea
When autumn here shall tinge the golden grain
But who shall teach us when to look for thee?"

A wide circle of friends here and elsewhere extend heartfelt sympathy and condolence to the bereaved father and mother and brothers and sisters in the loss of their son and brother.

R. H. Willis, prominent farmer residing just out of Princeton, was attending to business in the county seat Saturday and gave this office a pleasant call. He ordered the Weekly Democrat-Gazette sent to his friend, Luther Laird at Holtville, Calif. Mr. Laird recently resided in this county in the Princeton community but a few months ago moved his family to California. Mr. Willis is sending the paper to him as a surprise in order that he may keep posted on the happenings of his friends in Collin county. We appreciate the patronage of Mr. Willis.

"EVERYTHING'S ALL RIGHT."

(By DeWitt McMurray,
32d K. C. C. H.

There's a man in our city, and perhaps in yours, too.
Who goes a-whistling and a-singing at everything he has to do;
And he never sees a storm cloud
Dark enough to make him "blue,"
For he knows that very shortly the sunshine will filter through;
Yes, he knows that notwithstanding there are clouds all drooping low,
Up above the sun is shining and the mountain top's aglow,
And the lowlands and the valleys which are now by mists concealed
Soon will come forth in their beauty, their loveliness revealed
To the eyes of men and women and their admiration gain,
Like the snow upon the mountain and the flowers on the plain.
He believes that wisdom's guiding, but just why he cannot tell,
Still he feels there's safe abiding and that all will yet be well.
He is satisfied to struggle and in all things do his part;
He may have in mind some trouble, but a song is in his heart.
Matters not how dark the night is; at last comes the broad daylight;
When you ask him, "How're they coming?" he says,
"EVERYTHING'S ALL RIGHT."

Fifty-Five Were Present at W. M. S. Meeting Monday

The Baptist Women's Federation of McKinney was called to order at 2:30 Monday afternoon at the First Baptist church by the president, Mrs. W. D. Howell. Two familiar hymns were led by the musical director, Mrs. T. H. Bryant. Miss Beatrice Jackson was at the piano.

Mrs. F. E. Wilcox, president of the W. M. S. of the First church, welcomed the federation in her own sincere and charming manner, putting every one at ease and inspiring the happy feeling of being glad of being present.

Mrs. S. W. Cline, president of the W. M. S. of the North church, responded and in a few appropriate words graciously accepted the welcome. Mrs. J. C. Kimbriel read the devotional scripture, requesting Mrs. Jim McKinney to voice the prayer. Mrs. C. I. Wolford favored the audience with a special pipe organ number.

There were fifty-five women present, twenty of the North church, and thirty-five of the First church, two men and a number of children. Rev. O. B. Darby, pastor of the North church, was the principal speaker, basing his earnest, appropriate and short address on the subject, "The Familiar Home," using the phrase recorded in Luke 10:38-42, where Martha complained of Mary's neglect to lend a helping hand in entertaining their honorable guest "The Lord Jesus Christ."

Rev. Darby pleased the women by having only praise for the careful energetic Martha.

Mrs. A. G. Speck, official chairman, served a delicious plate lunch. While the guests enjoyed the refreshments, Miss Frankie Oates sang a beautiful solo.

The "McCoy sisters" delighted all with a reading and a duet.

Little Miss Annie Lois Watkins sang "The Old Fashioned Meeting," recalling pleasant memories of "The Cadle-Carter" meeting. Miss Inez Lackey was accompanist on the piano.

Mrs. H. W. Cline invited the federation to meet March 31, 1930, with the North church.

BONHAM HUMBLED BY M'KINNEY LIONS IN FRIDAY'S GAME, 38-0; SECOND AND THIRD TEAMS PLAY

VISITORS GIVE LOCAL LADS LITTLE OPPOSITION AS M. H. S. ELEVEN CROSSED GOAL LINE AT WILL; FORNEY WILL BE HERE FRIDAY; FRIDAY WEEK McKINNEY GOES TO DENISON.

By DON W. BAGWILL.

Running through the Bonham team almost at will, and using the second and third string elevens part of the time, the McKinney High Lions ran roughshod over the visiting Bonham High crew here Friday afternoon.

When the smoke of battle had cleared away and the final whistle had been sounded by referee J. N. Roney, it was found the score was:

McKinney 38; Bonham 0.

Thus the Lions, a "green horn" team, marched to their third straight victory of the season is as many games—Honey Grove and Woodrow Wilson (Dallas) being the two other victims.

The local lads were worked feverishly this week by Coach Doc Rollins, ably assisted by Coach W. R. Hollis. The way they played the game proved that they were in the pink of condition.

From the first few minutes of play it was evident the M. H. S. crew had a big edge on the visiting eleven made up of Bohhamites. This should not detract from the fighting spirit of the Lions opponents, for Coach Strickland brought over a fighting aggregation and they were fighting as gamely when the battle ended as they were when the first whistle blew.

Scoring Machine Busy.

The game was slow at times—yet, at times so fast and exciting with some spectacular play that the fans were brought to their feet cheering.

McKinney scored twice in the first quarter, twice in the second quarter, no score was made in the third quarter, while in the last quarter the Lions crossed the visitor's goal line two more times. Barrett, Miller, Shaw, Scribner and Pruett made McKinney's touchdowns.

After an exchange of punts in the first quarter, West, Bonham half, punted to Miller, McKinney full, who returned the pigskin ten yards. Scribner carrying the ball out of bounds. Barrett, fast as lightning, slipped through the line for 12 yards and first down. Shaw made a yard, and Miller was good for two more. Then Shaw shot one of his bullet-like passes and Pruett was there to grab it. It was good for 15 yards and placed the oval on the visitors' 10-yard line. Shaw went through the line for three yards. A lateral pass, Shaw to Barrett, netted the Lions five yards and Shaw, on the next play, carried the ball nearly over the line, letting Barrett take it across. Miller's attempt at goal was blocked. The score:

McKinney 6, Bonham 0.

In the same quarter, with the ball on the 41-yard line, Scribner went through the line for a 15-yard gain, Barrett made two yards. A pass, Shaw to Barrett, netted 10 more yards. Shaw ran through the line for 10 yards, placing the oval on the 4-yard line. Miller made a couple of yards. Scribner failed to gain, when a lateral pass, Scribner to Miller, netted the Lions their second touchdown. Miller's kick for point was wide. The score:

McKinney 12, Bonham 0.

In the second quarter, McKinney recovered when Bonham fumbled, Adair turning the trick, after which Bonham received a penalty, placing the ball on Bonham's 8-yard line. Shaw, on two plays, carried the ball over and Miller kicked goal. The score:

McKinney 19, Bonham 0.

It wasn't long afterward, until Adair blocked a Bonham punt and Ramsey, for McKinney, fell on the ball back of Bonham's goal line and the score mounted. The score:

McKinney 25, Bonham 0.

And thus the score stood at the end of the first half.

Second and Third Teams.

At the beginning of the second half, the fans were surprised to see a new team, what would be known as the second string group, trot out on the field. In this group was Wilcox, Alexander, Reinhardt, Neeley, Donohue, Cline, Duncan, Moore and White, and Williams.

In this period there were frequent substitutions, and there were few players, either on the second, third or any other team who didn't get a chance to get in the contest. The way some of these lads performed was indeed encouraging to local fans, who had bright visions of the wonderful football teams in two or three more years.

There was no scoring in this quarter.

First Team Back in Game.

Just before the last quarter, however, Rollins sent in the entire first string who started the contest, again.

In the fourth, McKinney got busy again. Bonham punted to McKinney. Miller running the ball back to Bonham's own 40-yard line. Shaw made a beautiful run around left end for 22 yards, putting the ball on the 18-yard line. Scribner was good for 3 yards and Shaw was good for 8 more. This put the oval on the 7-yard line. Barrett tore through the line for 6 yards and Scribner carried the ball over. Miller kicked goal. The score:

McKinney 32, Bonham 0.

Just before the close of the game, McKinney's scoring machine, just to prove that it was in good working order, scored again. Miller returned Bonham's punt to the 53-yard line, and on the next play was good for a 10-yard gain. Scribner made 6 yards. Then, with 35 yards to go, Shaw shot a long pass to Pruett, who was ready and waiting and who carried it over the goal line. Miller failed to kick goal. The score:

McKinney 38, Bonham 0.

For Bonham, Lovelace, full; West and English, halves and LeCroy, quarter, made some pretty gains at times during the contest.

Pep Squad There.

Between halves, the girl's pep squad, in their blue and gold uniforms, gave a pretty demonstration out on the field, forming the letters "M. H. S." The leaders are Misses Udis White and Janelle Bush. The band, as well as the yelling of the student body, enlivened the game's interest.

Forney Here Friday.

McKinney will play Forney here next Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock and on the following Friday, will play their first conference game at Denison with the Yellowjackets of that city. Denison, earlier in the season, defeated the Bonham crew 33 to 0, but those who have seen the Yellowjackets since then, say they have improved wonderfully and offer a stronger threat than they did earlier in the season.

Chambersville Gin Destroyed By Fire

Fire, thought to have originated from lightning, destroyed the Chambersville gin about 5 o'clock Thursday morning of this week. The gin was a total loss. It was owned by Dobson Bros. of Crisp, Ellis county. Oscar George of Chambersville was manager. The plant was partially covered by insurance. The gin plant proper, the cotton and seed house went up in the flames, and nothing escaped burning except the scales and the office.

The Chambersville gin had ginned 700 bales this season previous to its destruction by flames this week.

FIVE-SEVENTHS OF C. I. A. STUDENTS FROM RURAL COMMUNITIES

Denton, Oct. 4.—Approximately five-sevenths of the student body of the College of Industrial Arts live in rural communities and in towns with population of 10,000 or less, according to information given on registration cards.

Farming and ranching lead in the occupations of the parents or guardians with about 373 thus engaged. Merchants were listed next, about 200 being owners of stores. Only two students designated their parents as being steamship company operators, thus marking the least represented business.

Clerks and salesmen are third with about 153 employed in this way. Men in the oil industry are fourth. Real estate and insurance agents, government officials, and physicians and dentists almost tie for fifth place in the represented occupations.

Teachers and school superintendents were listed as 42. Railroad employees and contractors numbered 40. Ranking of other occupations according to number is: Bankers, automobile mechanics, manufacturers, druggists, lawyers, newspaper editors and publishers, ministers, barbers, electricians, plumbers, civil engineers, and auditors.

Mrs. Jack B. Dale and sons, Jack, Jim and Jerry, have returned to their home in Wichita Falls after a visit with her mother, Mrs. Grace E. Taylor, and sister, Elizabeth.

BORGER JUDGE GETS DEATH CARD IN MAIL

Borger, Texas, Oct. 4.—Cities adjacent to Borger today were voicing protests because of the influx of undesirables caused by the reign of martial law in Borger. Texas rangers continued their raiding activites today, bearing warrants for more than forty alleged speakeasies and houses of ill repute.

The military court of inquiry centered its attention on a mysterious ace of spades received through the mails by H. M. Hood, county judge. The card, wrapped in an Amarillo newspaper, bore no finger prints. In police parlance, an ace of spades is a threat of death.

FIRST ANNUAL DISTRICT SCOUT MEET IS SUCCESS

W. C. WILSON, DISTRICT PRESIDENT; IN CHARGE OF MEETING

Every scout troop of McKinney and the Frisco troop were represented at the first annual Boy Scout district meeting held at the First Christian church here Thursday night. Other scout leaders interested in the advancement of the scouting program from all parts of the county were also in attendance.

Postmaster Wallace C. Wilson, district president, presided over the meeting. After roll call, the chairman made his report, stating in conclusion that a more strenuous effort should be made this year to extend the work so as to include more boys. John S. Cotton, field executive, reported that forty days had been spent by him in Collin county in the twelve months ending October 1, thirty days of which were given to the city of McKinney. Most of this time was devoted to maintenance work, such as charter renewal, troop leadership, courts of honor and troop activities; also developing an adult district organization.

The question of holding a scout training school was discussed, which will likely be held in November. The school will be conducted by O. A. Kitterman, executive of Circle No. 10 area, of which McKinney is a part. He is recognized as one of the leaders in this work throughout the state.

The present district officers were re-elected to serve until 1930 and also to form the organization body for the training school.

Those elected to the district offices for the next twelve months are:

Wallace C. Wilson, district chairman.

Ira Anderson, vice chairman.

H. S. Ware, district commissioner.

Dr. M. E. Hudson, chairman of Court of Honor.

T. E. Craig, district representative of the area council.

Out-of-town scout leaders present include O. A. Kitterman, area executive; George Angell, area commissioner; Mr. Echols, finance secretary; N. H. Talley, scoutmaster at Frisco; J. P. McCullough, Collin county farm agent.

The next annual meeting will be held in October, 1930, at a place in the county to be selected at a later date.

COLLIN COUNTY BARBERS HEAR THEIR STATE LEADERS IN GOOD ADDRESSES HERE THURSDAY NIGHT

ELMONT SMITH CALLED MEETING TO ORDER—REQUIREMENTS OF NEWLY ENACTED BARBER LAW EXPLAINED AND IS CONSIDERED AN ADVANCEMENT OF PROGRESS BOTH FOR BARBERS AND PATRONIZING PUBLIC.

On Thursday, October 3 at 7:30 o'clock, more barbers assembled in McKinney than were ever here before at one time.

A county-wide call was extended and between seventy-five and one hundred barbers and Dallas visitors turned out. It is estimated that there are about one hundred barbers who are following their craft in Collin county.

The Speakings.

Some of the most prominent barbers of the state were here for this occasion. Among them were: J. D. Robinson, president of the State Master Barbers' union; E. B. Masters, president of the State Journeymen Barbers' union; Joe Bounds, vice-president of the Journeymen Barbers union; Hubert Smith, president of the Super-Service Barbers' club of Dallas; W. P. Jackson of Dallas, delegate to the International convention; Tommy Burnes of the Joy Synth company, manufacturers of toilet articles; John Turner, member of the Super-Service club of Dallas and Fred Moler, of the Moler Barber college at Dallas.

These speakers were introduced by E. B. Masters. This group o speakers included leaders of the trade or profession in the state. Their addresses showed them to be men of ability, logical and entertaining public speakers. Their audience was made up of an intelligent looking body of earnest workers, who are anxious to serve the public in a better and more courteous, efficient way than ever before. The meeting was a decided success, both from social and professional standpoints. Everybody enjoyed the addresses and each speaker was heartily applauded. The new barber law was commended by the speakers.

Dinner Enjoyed.

The meeting adjourned to the Lovell cafe, where a fine dinner was served to all present. Many compliments were given Mr. Lovell on the splendid menu that he served and on his neat, attractive, modernly arranged cafe in which it was served.

A new day has dawned in the barbering business throughout the country and Collin county barbers propose to keep up with the procession of modern progress. The speakers on this occasion urged barbers to be more neat in their personal appearances and to spare no efforts to give 100 per cent service and efficiency to the patrons of their shops, which are now very largely patronized by the ladies as well as the men. In the old days barbers were more indifferent about their personal appearance and conduct. Barber shops were often the loafing places of idlers and drinking people where shady stories were told and often swearing was heard. It is quite different now. No shop in the county will tolerate swearing in it or loud boisterous talking. Gentlemanly conduct is demanded and barbers vie with each other in courtesy and genteel bearing, one towards another and towards all who come into their places of business. The coming of prohibition and the patronage of women have lifted the barber business to a higher standard of conduct and operation.

SHOULD BE CAREFUL IN TALKING TO YOURSELF SAYS DR. H. E. FOSDICK

The things that men, women and children say to themselves when alone, make or unmake their lives according to Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, noted New York minister, in a plan for self examination outlined in The American Magazine.

"Most people do scant justice to the immonse impertance of inward conversation which never stops," says Dr. Fosdick. Usually they are fully awake when in company of others, to the influence of conversation, whether it be pleasant or displeasing. They are wary of propaganda and see the disastrous effects of conversation. Everybody has seen, he continues, a young girl wilt before a scornful remark, or watched the baneful effects both physical and psychological which sarcasm and scoffing can produce on a growing boy.

"Yet one of the commonest keys of inward conversation is quarrelsomeness. Forever to be engaged in an inward conflict, writing imaginary letters attacking somebody, constructing imaginary conversation berating somebody, or pummeling our own selves with wordy bludgeons, is utterly disruptive to personality," says Dr. Fosdick. "Anxious self-communion is worse. Of course sometimes the reasons run back to childhood and only a first rate psychiatrist can get at the hidden causes of the disorder. Some pugnacious and malevolent self-communion, however, is quite preventable, and only our failure to recognize how ruinous it is keeps us at it."

EUROPEAN POINTS OF INTEREST TO M'KINNEY TOURIST

MISS LORINE BALL IN REQUESTED ARTICLE TELLS OF HER IMPRESSIONS

At the special request of the editor, Miss Lorine Ball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Ball, of this city contributes an interesting article on her impressions as she toured Europe for several weeks during the past summer. Miss Ball is a teacher in McKinney public schools and we bespeak for her article the interest of all of our readers. She visited a number of the larger cities of Europe, and in her article describes many points of interest in and concerning them:

Impressions.

If one rides from Le Havre to Paris, he soon realizes the beauty and variety of French scenery. The province of Normandy has quite justly been made famous in both song and story; every cottage, no matter how humble, has beautiful flowers and shrubs around it. Some of the hills are quite steep, but the farmers are not daunted, they go right ahead and lay out tiny fields which are entirely cultivated by hand. The small geometric divisions of vari-colored vegetation make the hillside appear very picturesque. To see orderly rows of beets, lettuce, beans, and carrots growing along the railroad track makes one realize the thrift of the peasants. Some of the tall trees present quite an unusual appearance; all of the lower limbs have been cut off and nothing remains but a fuzzy green pom-pon on top. Fuel is scarce, so the peasants have resorted to this unique method of making their supply last longer.

Between Le Havre and Paris an express train makes only one stop which is at the historic old city of Rouen. Quite conspicuous and near the top of the hill on which Rouen is located, is a newly-erected white marble monument to Joan of Arc. On the square in the lower part of the town is a statue marking the exact place where she was so mercilessly burned by the British.

One is first appalled by the amount of luggage the porters can pile on one back, and then by the Parisian taxis; there is nothing as small and fast and noisy as a Parisian taxi and its driver. Taxi fare is very cheap in spite of the fact that gasoline is nearly forty cents per gallon. There are few privately owned cars, because they are expensive and the upkeep is high. Few filling stations and garages are to be found in the cities and along the roads.

Paris, the brilliant gay and beautiful capital of France, is all that it is said to be. Place de la Concorde is the largest and most beautiful square in the world. It was here that the guillotine did its deadly work during the days of the first revolution. Among the 2,800 people who were victims of this terrible instrument were Marie Antoinette and Louis XIV. The obelisk in the center of the square now is a sister to Cleopatra's Needle in New York City, and was given to the French government at the same time Cleopatra's Needle was given to our government. Around the square are eight allegorical statues representing eight important cities of France. That of Strassburg was covered with crepe after the Franco-Prussian war; the crepe was not taken off until July 14, 1919, when the French had their great celebration after the World war.

The most interesting thing in Place Vendome is the large bronze column in the center which Napoleon made from the metal of Austrian cannon captured on the battlefield. The whole column is covered with 2,000 figures in spiral arrangement. In 1871, during the Commune, the column was torn down by the mob, but was re-erected three years later. The top is surmounted by a statue of Napoleon in imperial robes.

There are many fine squares in Paris and all of them seem to have an historical reason for existence. In fact, one need never walk far to find something interesting in any very old city such as Paris. It is not necessary to fell sorry for the children of Paris who live in apartment houses, for there is always a beautiful park nearby. The Tuileries gardens probably have more history connected with them than any of the others. It gets its name from an old tile (Tuiles in French) factory that operated on this site before 1564. Catherine de Medicis had a royal palace built here which remained until 1884 when it was torn down to make room for the beautifully laid-out gardens. Splendid trees, attractive and colorful flower-beds, ever-playing fountains, and artistic statues show that no amount of pains and expenses were spared in the creation of this delightful resting place in the midst of a city throbbing with activity.

Notre Dame is the most famous of all the churches in Paris. It is located on an island in the Seine known as "La Cite," because it was here that Paris was first founded. On Sunday morning the square in front of the cathedral is a riotous mass of gorgeous colors, and one can buy a dozen perfect rosebuds for only four cents. The massive structure of the building is a splendid example of Gothic architecture; it was begun in 1163 and finished in 1315, but the building replaced a much older one erected in the fourth century. It is thought that the two large square towers in front of the building were originally meant to support spires. However, the only spire that was ever erected is over the high altar, and is a marvel for its beauty and lightness being of timber covered with lead, over which is covered with multitudes of angles. One always looks with amused interest at the exceedingly ugly gorgoyles that are placed in convenient spots for waterspouts. There are rows and rows of saints in each doorway, and the doors, themselves, are covered with beautiful old ironwork of an intricate design.

There are thirty-seven side chapels in the church; each chapel is decorated in a manner peculiarly pleasing to a particular saint. The Lady Chapel, honoring the Virgin, and the two on either side are painted and gilded, a good many of the colored decorations remaining. There is some good wood carving and in front of the tabernacle are seven huge lamps of elegant design and workmanship. These added to the beauty of the old stained glass windows, make this end of the church by far the most beautiful part.

The church was rich in exquisite thirteenth century stained glass until 1741, when a reformer took it upon himself "to improve" the building by taking out the colored glass of many windows and putting in greenish-yellow panes. The glory o the place is in three rose windows over the doorways. The colors in these windows are so exquisite that they cannot be described, neither can they be duplicated by modern stained-glass experts. People often come to the church just to look at these windows.

Sainte Chapelle is the most beautiful building and the most perfect example of Gothic architecture in Paris. It is a small chapel, which is no longer used, erected by Louis IX to house the sacred relics brought from the Holy Land; these same relics, a nail from the cross and pieces of the crown of thorns, now rest in the vaults of Notre Dame. There are two chapels, an upper one for the king and his nobles and a lower one for the people of lower rank and order. There are some very interesting stone carvings on the front of the building representing the story of the creation as we know it. The long, narrow, beautifully stained glass window which form three sides of the upper chapel are the finest part of the building. Because of the protected location of the building, the windows have remained practically unbroken. During the late war all of them were taken out and stored in the vaults of Notre Dame and were restored just two years ago.

Numerous museums are scattered about Paris, the largest and finest of which is the Louvre. It was built for a royal palace in 1571, later Catherine de Medicis enlarged and improved it, still later Cardinal Richelieu doubled the dimensions, and in 1857 the Louvre and part of the Tuileries were united into one splendid building which became the national museum. The contents of the museum include all kinds of relics of antiquity, archaic ceramics, and the best of medieval and modern sculpture and painting. Some of the most famous statues are Venus de Milo, Victory of Smothrace, Diana, the Huntress, and the huge image of Melpomene. Probably more people look for Leonardo da Vinci's Mona Lisa than for any other picture; it is hung low and in an excellent light so that one is immediately captured by her illusive smile. A glass has lately been placed over this picture for protection. Millet always receives his due amount of homage; however, his pictures are becoming dim, due, we are told, to the poor quality of paint he was forced to use because of his poverty. There are hundreds of masterpieces in the Louvre, no living artist ever has a piece of his work placed in the museum. The portrait of Whistler's mother is the only American picture in the entire collection.

One of the chief architectual glories of Paris is the Arc de Triomphe de l'Etoile. It is a massive arch built by Napoleon to commemorate the Austerlizt campaign. The "Unknown Soldier" of France now rests under the great archway where a "Flame of Remembrance" is kept burning day and night. The open space around the arch is known as the Place of the Star, because of the twelve broad avenues which radiate from this point. The best known of these avenues is Champs-Elysees, which extends to Place de la Concorde. This avenue is not only famous for its beauty, but also for its fashion display at tea time on fine afternoons.

A trip to the battlefields always proves a source of great revelation to the usual tourist. It is hard to realize that the broad fields, peaceful rivers, and gently sloping hills were ever the scene of turmoil and strife.

Rheims, 100 miles east of Paris, is a typical war-devasted city. Out of 16,000 buildings before the war, only twenty-two were standing at the close. The resolution and courage with which the people set about rebuilding their demolished city is worthy of the highest praise. Practically all of Rheims is now restored, and the population is almost as great as it was before the war. The new buildings are almost exact copies of the old ones, and as much of the old stone as possible was used in reconstruction. John D. Rockefeller has been quite liberal with donations to help restore the splendid cathedral, but it is feared that it will never be called the most beautiful cathedral in Europe. The people are very proud of a Carnegie library that has just recently been completed.

Some distance from Rheims, Hindenburg's dugout is found intact. It is a marvelous piece of masonry, cement walls and doors two feet which is reinforced by half-inch iron rods. Such dugouts were to be found at two-mile intervals along the German front line trenches, but all have been destroyed except this one in which "they say" Hindenburg had his headquarters. The French readily acknowledge the superiority of German military tactics.

Near the Aisne river is the famous Hill 108 from which the French were never able to drive the Germans. The trenches below the hill were scarcely more than fifty feet apart. Two enormous mine craters, side by side, are all that is left of the hill; one hole was made by the French when they thought they were blowing up the Germans, and the other was made by the Germans two minutes later to show that the French had failed.

The peasants take great pride in cultivating the young trees in the war-torn section. New York, Colorado, Nebraska, California, and other states have sent trees which have been planted in groves or along the good roads; most of them seem to be growing quite nicely. Belleau Wood is rapidly growing up again and Chatalet Wood could easily hide another Big Bertha (this gun shot to Paris, sixty-eight miles away, but the French now have one that will shoot a hundred miles). The one-man dugouts on the sides of the hills are rapidly filling up, and soon all trace of them will be gone.

Numbers of war cemeteries are to be found in France, American, French, British, Italian, and German. The French use a white marble slab to mark the graves; the Americans, a white marble cross, except the Jews, who have a star; the Italians, a green wooden cross; and the Germans, a black wooden cross. All of the cemeteries are now kept by the native government. There are six American cemeteries, the largest is Romagne with 14,000 graves, then Seringes, between the Oise and Aisne rivers, with 6,000 graves. Fourteen hundred graves are in Belleau Wood cemetery which is joined by a German cemetery, with 2,100 black crosses. The American government seems to have taken the most interest in the upkeep of its cemeteries; the graves have no flowers on them, but flowers and shrubs and trees are arranged as attractive decorations of the whole. The caretakers are American ex-soldiers, and each one is furnished a charming French stone cottage in which to live. Each cemetery is to have a small chapel, which is now under construction, and which promises to be as attractive as the surroundings demand.

The French people never miss an opportunity to express appreciation of the American soldiers, and they always emphasize that if the American army had not come, France would now be under German control. In almost every town one sees a beautiful monument to American soldiers; at Fismes there is a fine new bridge in honor of Pennsylvania troops, and at Chateau-Thierry a new bridge honors Theodore Roosevelt.

THE HOPE OF THE NATION.

Here Is America
Here in these schools where eager feet of children run,
Here where a thousand windows
open to the sun,
Here where there is no heed of color or creed,
Only to find and fill each young mind's eager need—
This is America!

Here Is America
Here in these schools where learning opens wide a door
Through which young wings may find their way and soar
From poverty or riches to the highest peak,
And where the lowliest may find the goal they seek—
This is America!

Here Is America
Here in this melting pot of youth
the future years await,
In these young, seeking hands there lies the Nation's fate.
Give them the knowledge that will armor them from birth
To fight anew, that freedom shall not perish from the earth—
This is America

William Duncan Jr., of the Retail Credit company of San Antonio, was in McKinney to attend the burial of his father, the late William Duncan, prominent old retired West Collin farmer, who died Friday. William Duncan Jr. is really the third generation of William Duncans. His father and grandfather both before him bore the same name.

NUTRITION RED CROSS WORKER WILL AID AND ADVISE WITH MOTHERS AT COUNTY FAIR

Children From Infancy To School Age Will be Examined Free So Announces Mrs. Dan W. Scott Chairman Nutrition Committee—Big Roll Call Being Planned For By County Chairman W. S. Smith.

An interesting meeting was held by the executive committee of the Collin County Red Cross chapter at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, Oct. 2, in the McKinney Chamber of Commerce hall. Prof. W. S. Smith, president, was in the chair and Walter B. Wilson, secretary pro tem, recorded the minutes.

The members present were: Prof. W. S. Smith, Mrs. Charles Waide, Mrs Fred G. Burnitt, Mrs Dan W. Scott, Mrs. A. M. Wolford, Mrs. J. Ed McGee, C. M. Cooper, F. C. Thompson, Dr. P. D. Robason, and Walter B. Wilson.

County Roll Call.

Prof. Smith, in addition to being president of the County Chapter, has also been elected chairman of the County Roll Call that is to be held sometime during the month of November. Mr. Smith made a report on progress already made in preliminary organization. W. C. Dowdy has been named as director for McKinney; Miss Hattie Neathery, local director for Farmersville; Mrs. J. Frank Harrington, local director at Plano; Mrs. W. F. Duncan, local director at Wylie; Mrs. Pool, local director at Nevada and Mrs. Jesse Harben, local director at Blue Ridge. Other directors are being arranged for and appointed at other places in the county as fast as possible.

County Fair.

Mrs. J. Ed McGee, expressed herself as highly pleased that we would have a Red Cross both at the County Fair this year. It was decided that Mrs. Dan W. Scott, nutrition chairman, be authorized to secure the service of a child welfare worker from Dallas headquarters to remain in the Red Cross booth during the Fair for three days and nights, Oct. 8, 9 and 10. This special welfare worker wil confer with mothers in weighing their babies, measuring and scoring them and otherwise demonstrating the importance and value of nutrition work in the community and county. Mrs. Scott states that she will have a rest room also furnished for the free use of mothers with their babies. Children from infancy to school age are requested to be brought by mothers from over the county to the Red Cross both where this special welfare worker may see them and advise with the mother on diet and in other ways calculated to build up health and promote the normal growth of any under-nurished or under-sized children as well as over developed children.

Dr. P. D. Robason, county health officer, commended the nutrition work being done under the leadership of Mrs. Scott and tendered her the free use of his office scales for the Red Cross booth. This booth will be ten by twenty feet in diamensions.

Resolutions of Respect.

Mrs. A. M. Wolford read the following resolutions of respect to the memory of the late C. W. Smith, faithful secretary of the Collin county Red Cross chapter whose death occurred August 28. The resolutions were unanimously adopted and ordered spread upon the minutes of the meeting:

In Memory C. W. Smith.

To the Board of Directors of Collin County Red Cross Chapter:

We the committee appointed to present resolutions of appreciation of our late Secretary C. W. Smith whose death occurred August 28th, 1929, submit the following:

The name of Clarence W. Smith, together with that of his brother Harry Q. Smith, has been prominent in the life of McKinney and Collin County for nearly a half century—Smith Brothers never failed to respond to every call to advance the interest of our city and county.

In the death of C. W. Smith the Collin County Red Cross Chapter has lost a valued member, a tireless worker, and a progressive supporter. He was in the forefront in all of the drives during the mobilization preparatory to the World War and during the war. He contributed freely of his support when disaster came to our own county.

We shall miss him as a co-worker who labored with us faithfully, and always graciously. We shall miss his friendship, his counsel, his service.

Respectfully submitted:
MRS. A. M. WOLFORD,
MRS. DAN SCOTT,
MRS. J. ED McGEE,
Committee.

Oct. 2, 1929.

PRESIDENT HOOVER AND STIMSON SEND MESSAGES TO HIM

FIRST BRITISH PRIME MINISTER IN HISTORY TO LAND ON U. S. SOIL

New York, Oct. 4.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald arrived in the United States today on a mission of closer understanding between the United States and Great Britain.

The Berengaria, bearing the Prime Minister and his daughter, Ishbel, arrived off the harbor at dawn, escorted by the United States cruisers Memphis and Trenton.

The wide purpose which, he has indicated, both he and President Hoover hold in common—to make the Atlantic narrower and to achieve a greater unity for pacific purposes among all peoples—seemed closer than ever to his heart. As he neared American shores he exchanged hearty greetings by wireless with President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson.

GEORGE DENTON TO FILL END POSITION AT OKLAHOMA U.

McKINNEY LAD IS ANOTHER MART BROWN, FORMER M. H. S. PLAYER

Norman, Oklahoma, Oct. 4.—The first man that Coach Ad Lindsey picked to fill the end position left open by Tom Churchell, all-Big Six end on last year's Sooner football team, was George Denton of McKinney, Texas.

Denton weighs 175 pounds and is 5 feet 9 inches tall. He is just another Mart Brown, former Sooner end, in build. Being low to the ground and with the weight he carries, he will naturally be hard for the backs to carry out. Oklahoma university fans will well remember Brown as one of the toughest ends on defense in the conference. If Denton is able to carry on at end like Brown did, he will take care of that position.

Denton did not play much in high school, but was taught most of what he knows during his freshman year. Playing one year at Stamford, Texas, and one year at Sherman, Texas, Denton got little experience at end, but made his first letter in high school football while playing with McKinney. That year his team went to the semi-finals of the state and was beaten by the strong Marshall High team.

Denton knows that there is a lot of Sooners bidding for end positions, and he also knows that he has to hustle if he keeps it. He loves football and seems to have his whole heart in every practice.

George is working all of his way through school. He is a Kappa Sigma pledge.

O. M. Howard, 1308 Deaver avenue, Stockyards street, Fort Worth, renews his Daily Courier-Gazette subscription for another year in advance. Thanks.
